for the first time a scholar reveals the meaning of the marginal images on the bayeux tapestry unlocking a completely new meaning of the work the story of the norman conquest and the battle of hasting as shown in the bayeux tapestry is arguably the most widely known in the panoply of english history and over the last 200 years there have been hundreds of books on the tapestry seeking to analyze its meanings yet there is one aspect of the embroidery that has been virtually ignored or dismissed as unimportant by historians the details in the margins the fables shown in the margins are neither just part of a decorative ribbon nor are they discontinuous they follow on in sequence when this is understood it becomes clear that they must relate to the action shown on the body of the tapestry after careful examination the purpose of these images is to amplify elaborate or explain the main story in this groundbreaking study arthur wright reveals the significance of the images in the margins now it is possible to see the whole story as never before enabling a more complete picture of the bayeux tapestry to be constructed wright reexamines many of the scenes in the main body of the work showing that a number of the basic assumptions so often taught as facts have been based on nothing more than reasoned conjecture it might be thought that after so much has been written about the bayeux tapestry there was nothing more to be said but decoding the bayeux tapestry shows how much there is still to be learned this collection of fifteen papers ranges from the author's initial interest in the tapestry as a source of information on early medieval dress through to her startling recognition of the embroidery's sophisticated narrative structure developing the work of previous authors who had identified graphic models for some of the images she argues that not just the images themselves but the contexts from which they were drawn should be taken in to account in reading the messages of the tapestry in further investigating the minds and hands behind this the largest non architectural artefact surviving from the middle ages she ranges over the seams the embroidery stitches the language and artistry of the inscription the potential significance of borders and the gestures of the figures in the main register always scrutinising detail informatively she identifies an over riding conception and house style in the tapestry but also sees different hands at work in both needlecraft and graphics most intriguingly she recognises an sub contractor with a roman source and a clownish wit the author is professor of anglo saxon culture at the university of manchester uk a specialist in old english poetry anglo saxon material culture and medieval dress and textiles
