with a lurch the train came to a dead stop and margaret earle hastily gathering up her belongings hurried down the aisle and got out into the night it occurred to her as she swung her heavy suitcase down the rather long step to the ground and then carefully swung herself after it that it was strange that neither conductor brakeman nor porter had come to help her off the train when all three had taken the trouble to tell her that hers was the next station but she could hear voices up ahead perhaps something was the matter with the engine that detained them and they had forgotten her for the moment drawing on recent theories of digital media and on the materiality of words and images this fascinating study makes three original claims about the work of william blake first blake offers a critique of digital media his poetry and method of illuminated printing is directed towards uncovering an analogical language second blake s work can be read as a performative finally blake s work is at one and the same time immanent and transcendent aiming to return all forms of divinity and the sacred to the human imagination stressing that all deities reside in the human breast but it also stresses that the human has powers or potentials that transcend experience and judgement deities reside in the human breast these three claims are explored through the concept of incarnation the incarnation of ideas in words and images the incarnation of words in material books and their copies the incarnation of human actions and events in bodies and the incarnation of spirit in matter aimer et mourir offers a wide ranging selection of essays that collectively address how from the middle ages to the present the notions of love and death get inextricably associated with the narratives that are women s lives some of the essays tackle male writers representations that link women and in particular women s sexuality with death resulting in the figures of the femme fatale the woman in parturition and the desiring vampire a number of essays reiterate that women s hyper sexualized bodies have been used as a social construct and a psychological screen upon which to project a fear of death the challenges to this pat reduction of woman s domain come from the mostly women writers represented here and they span from marguerite de navarre to amélie nothomb these women writers rework the old formulae giving us instead death defying memories of love love regenerative of language as of bodies love forcing the frontiers of death or love creatively redefined within the parameters of death nor are these new narratives imagined as belonging to women alone but rather as attesting to a richer more varied and greatly sensitized human experience vicchio believes that by understanding how much muslim tradition overlaps with the biblical traditions of judaism and christianity we might begin to expose a wedge of common ground on which understanding and respect might begin to be built vicchio begins with a brief introduction sketching some fundamentals of muslim history and culture and clearing away some common misconceptions his main goal however is to give us a detailed look at the treatment of biblical figures in the literature of islam the broad range of his research and presentation is startling he begins with the qur an but continues on to the collected writing of the roughly two hundred years after mohammed hadith sunnah akhbar that came to be regarded as authoritative in the various traditions that developed in early islam he then traces the interest in these biblical figures on into modern treatments of the role of these figures in muslim scholarship and how these figures are understood and used in the traditions of islam yet today the result of vicchio s scholarship and presentation will be a revelation to most christian and jewish readers it has become somewhat commonplace to refer to judaism christianity and islam as the three abrahamic faiths this shows a beginning awareness of the beginnings of each of these three great religions birthed in the middle east in a common ancestor abraham ibrahim abraham s faithfulness and his closeness to god make his a revered figure in each of these three great faiths and for each abraham is a beginning of the story of the particular relationship between god and the people of each of these religions from the foreword
