terry devlin has been a management consultant in christchurch new zealand since moving from england in 1973 after his wife joan died in 1999 terry took up a new dimension with teaching english to overseas students mainly from south korea japan and china he successfully completed a tesol course in 2001 and this complemented tertiary studies in english language and literature from canterbury university where he gained a bachelor of arts degree prior to that he was qualified and experienced in teaching management subjects and obtained a city and guilds teaching diploma in england the reason for taking up esol was that while taking homestay students for many years he realised that one essential skill missing from most language schools curricula was the ability to use the english language effectively strong on grammar but limited on usefulness the english conversation centre started in 2000 and concentrated on pronunciation reading speaking listening and understanding in looking for suitable material it was soon clear this was not available in the right form so terry began creating his own exercises and writing his own stories for use in the classes these range from beginner through intermediate and to advanced level and over all age groups callum and oliver devlin right are two of terry s three grandsons and they have done the illustrations for the books the twins have shown an aptitude for the arts and this shines out from the excellent drawings constraint satisfaction is a simple but powerful tool constraints identify the impossible and reduce the realm of possibilities to effectively focus on the possible allowing for a natural declarative formulation of what must be satisfied without expressing how the field of constraint reasoning has matured over the last three decades with contributions from a diverse community of researchers in artificial intelligence databases and programming languages operations research management science and applied mathematics today constraint problems are used to model cognitive tasks in vision language comprehension default reasoning diagnosis scheduling temporal and spatial reasoning in constraint processing rina dechter synthesizes these contributions along with her own significant work to provide the first comprehensive examination of the theory that underlies constraint processing algorithms throughout she focuses on fundamental tools and principles emphasizing the representation and analysis of algorithms examines the basic practical aspects of each topic and then tackles more advanced issues including current research challenges builds the reader s understanding with definitions examples theory algorithms and complexity analysis synthesizes three decades of researchers work on constraint processing in ai databases and programming languages operations research management science and applied mathematics
