this fourth edition of metric pattern cutting for children s wear and babywear remains the standard text book but has three major improvements first the sections have been re organised to reflect changes in producing and marketing children s clothes today s popularity of easy fitting styles and knitted fabrics means that basic flat pattern cutting is used to construct the majority of children's wear and babywear and this type of cutting is therefore emphasised in this new edition shaped blocks and garments cut to fit the body form are still included and are placed in chapters covering some school uniform garments or more expensive fashion or formal clothes the book now clearly separates the sections useful to student beginners parts one two and three and also offers more advanced or specialist sections for students who wish to pursue a career in children's wear or for designers working in the different manufacturing sectors of the trade the second change in this fourth edition is the introduction of colour coding to the sections this makes it easier to identify specific processes in the book and enhances the illustrations finally the size charts have been revised to reflect the changes in body sizing the clear division of the boys and girls measurements in the charts has been in response to the way clothes are marketed and to co ordinate with european size charts plus charts for heavier children have also been added this book is the first to bring together researchers in individual differences in personality and temperament to explore whether there is any unity possible between the temperament researchers of infancy and childhood and the major researchers in adult personality prior to the workshop which resulted in this volume the existing literature seemed to document a growing consensus on the part of the adult personality researchers that five major personality dimensions the big five might be sufficient to account for most of the important variances in adult individual differences in personality in contrast to this accord the literature on child and infant individual differences seemed to offer a wide variety of opinions regarding the basic dimensions of difference in personality or temperament the editors believed that they could encourage researchers from both the adult and child areas to consider the importance of a lifespan conceptualization of individual differences by discussing their research in terms of a continuity approach written by some of the most distinguished scholars from great britain continental western europe and eastern europe as well as the united states and canada the chapters present a cross cultural view of both adult personality and temperament in infancy and childhood by sharing their recent data techniques and theoretical speculations the chapter authors communicate the research enthusiasm engendered by the growing consensus of the adult big five as well as the exciting prospects of an integrative program of research from infancy to adulthood that will clarify and consolidate what is now a disparate set of methods theory and findings across the lifespan the editors suggest that this volume will have considerable heuristic value in stimulating researchers to conceptualize their work in developmental lifespan approaches that will lead to a consolidation of individual differences research at every age
