first published in 1988 this thought provoking volume offers a constructive critical analysis of family therapy for its neglect of the self in the system and provides a therapeutic approach to clinical problems that takes into account both individual and family dynamics the author shows that by elevating the metaphor of the system to dogma family therapy has lost sight of much of the richness and complicating influence of personal feeling motivation and conflict resulting in a proliferation of esoteric abstract theories and highly mechanistic technical interventions the self in the system describes a different reality that is often overlooked no matter how much their behavior is coordinated within the system family members remain separate individuals with private hopes and ambitions motives and expectations quirks and foibles and potentials for creative work this book provides a unique approach that develops a better understanding of family members individual experiences and helps in enhancing their personal responsibility and ability to solve their own interactional problems within the family system the approach however is not just another version of psychoanalytic family therapy but rather one that utilizes the best tools of family therapy and the most useful ideas from individual psychology and psychodynamic psychotherapy chapters cover such important topics as finding the family and losing the self the problem of change working with interaction the effective use of empathy making assessments that include both the whole family system and the psychology of its members interactional psychodynamics a practical guide to object relations theory how to develop understanding and working with resistance biblical scholars often read the bible with their own interpretive interests in mind without associating the bible with the concerns of laypeople this largely undermines the contributions laypeople can offer from reading the bible in their own contexts and from their own life experiences moreover such exclusively scholarly reading conceals the role of biblical texts in dealing with current social problems such as hiv aids related stigmatization hence the lack of lay participation in the process of bible reading makes the bible less visible in various common life situations in this volume elia shabani mligo draws on his fieldwork among people living with hiv aids plwha in tanzania selects stigmatization as his perspective and chooses participant centered contextual bible study as his method to argue that the reading of texts from the gospel of john by plwha given their lived experiences of stigmatization empowers them to reject stigmatization as unjust mligo s study shows that christian plwha reject stigmatization because it does not comply with the attitude of jesus toward stigmatized groups in his own time the theology emerging from the readings by stigmatized plwha through their evaluation of jesus attitudes and acts toward stigmatized people in the texts challenges churches in their obligatory mission as disciples of Jesus churches are challenged to reconsider healing hospitality and caring prophetic voices against stigmatization and the way they teach about HIV and AIDS in relation to sexuality churches must revisit their practices toward stigmatized groups and listen to their voices Mligo argues that participant centered Bible study methods similar to the one used in this book whereby stigmatized people are the primary interlocutors in the process can be useful tools in listening to the voices of stigmatized groups
