Effective Early Learning 1997-01-15 capturing children's meanings in early childhood research and practice draws together contemporary research and established theories to produce a unique take on the meanings children express through a range of creative tools drawing on Reggio Emilia and the Mosaic Approach. This book provides readers with a range of strategies for accessing, recording and interpreting young children's perceptions of and responses to their experiences, providing a synthesis of the multiple imaginative ways we can capture young children's meanings through observations, art, photo elicitation, mindfulness, music and other creative methods. Halpenny covers topics such as negotiating challenges presented by researching with children, frameworks for seeing and hearing children's intentions, accurately documenting and interpreting research findings, promoting children's meanings and their performance of them, moving forward with new understandings. This book is an indispensable resource for students of early childhood education, especially for courses focusing on the lived experiences of children from early to middle childhood. It is also a useful reference for those working with young children in educational and caregiving settings and for those advocating for young children.

Capturing Children's Meanings in Early Childhood Research and Practice 2020-11-26 Oxford Studies in Early Modern Philosophy is an annual series presenting a selection of the best current work in the history of early modern philosophy. It focuses on the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, the extraordinary period of intellectual flourishing that begins very roughly with Descartes and his contemporaries and ends with Kant. It also publishes papers on thinkers or movements outside of that framework provided they are important in illuminating early modern thought. The articles in OSEMP will be of importance to specialists within the discipline but the editors also intend that they should appeal to a larger audience of philosophers, intellectual historians and others who are interested in the development of modern thought.
