material science and the human body man through intensive observations of natural phenomena has learned about some of the basic principles which govern nature the aurora is one of the most fascinating of these natural phenomena and by studying it man has just begun to comprehend auroral phenomena in terms of basic cosmic electrodynamic processes the systematic and extensive observation of the aurora during and after the great international enterprise the international geophysical year lgy led to the concept of the auroral substorm like many other geophysical phenomena auroral displays have a dual time universal and local time dependence when seen by a ground based observer thus it was a difficult task for single observers rotating with the earth once a day to grasp a transient feature of a large scale auroral display such a complexity is inevitable in studying many geophysical features in particular the polar upper atmospheric phenomena however it was found that their complexity began to unfold when the concept of the auroral substorm was introduced in a book entitled polar and magnetospheric substorms the predecessor to this book i tried to describe the auroral phenomena as completely as possible in terms of the concept of the auroral substorm at that time the first satellite observations of particles and magnetic fields during substorms were just becoming available and it was suggested that the auroral sub storm is a manifestation of a magnetospheric phenomenon called the magnetospheric substorm eosinophils in health and disease provides immunology researchers and students with a comprehensive overview of current thought and cutting edge eosinophil research providing chapters on basic science disease specific issues therapeutics models for study and areas of emerging importance man through intensive observations of natural phenomena has learned about some of the basic principles which govern nature the aurora is one of the most fascinating of these natural phenomena and by studying it man has just begun to comprehend auroral phenomena in terms of basic cosmic electrodynamic processes the systematic and extensive observation of the aurora during and after the great international enterprise the international geophysical year lgy led to the concept of the auroral substorm like many other geophysical phenomena auroral displays have a dual time universal and local time dependence when seen by a ground based observer thus it was a difficult task for single observers rotating with the earth once a day to grasp a transient feature of a large scale auroral display such a complexity is inevitable in studying many geophysical features in particular the polar upper atmospheric phenomena however it was found that their complexity began to unfold when the concept of the auroral substorm was introduced in a book entitled polar and magnetospheric substorms the predecessor to this book i tried to describe the auroral phenomena as completely as possible in terms of the concept of the auroral substorm at that time the first satellite observations of particles and magnetic fields during substorms were just becoming available and it was suggested that the auroral sub storm is a manifestation of a magnetospheric phenomenon called the magnetospheric substorm
