the united states national technology and industrial base ntib is a congressionally mandated policy framework that is intended to foster a defence free trade area among the defence related research and development sectors of the united states canada australia and the united kingdom to date however the ntib has only managed to facilitate limited bilateral cooperation between some members falling well short of its goal the us defence export control regime is one of the biggest barriers to ntib integration specifically bureaucratic fragmentation its failure to treat trusted allies differently from other partners and its leaders reluctance to attempt politically costly reform are significant barriers to progress canberra s ability to maintain its own competitive military advantage and to serve as an effective ally of the united states in the indo pacific is threatened by real and growing opportunity costs in an age of rapid strategic and technological change that australia and australian industry face as a result of slow ntib implementation australian leaders should elevate ntib progress to the political level and accelerate efforts to make a strategic case in washington as to why extensive and ambitious implementation of ntib s original vision is urgently needed liberalism in the nineteenth century sense of the term came to austria much later than it came to western europe for it was not until the 1840s that the industrial revolution reached the hapsburg empire bringing in its train miserable working conditions and economic upheaval which created bitter resentment among the working classes and a longing for a utopia that would cure the ills of mankind this new found liberalism largely self contained and uninfluenced by liberal movements outside the empire centered mainly in the idea of individual freedom and constitutional monarchism in the end the revolution failed because the moderates proved too weak to control the radical excesses and the radicals in growing desperation tried to turn the rebel idea into a democratic and at the extreme a republican one fear of this extremism finally drove the moderates into the counterrevolutionary camp since the viennese rebels fought to achieve many of the goals fundamental to democracy historians have generally tended to idealize the revolutionaries and forget their shortcomings r john rath has sought to evaluate the revolution from the point of view of the political ideologies of 1848 rather than those of the mid twentieth century moreover he has clearly and objectively stated the case for both the left and the right pointing out the failures and shortcomings of each at its publication this was the first detailed english language book on the viennese revolution of 1848 in more than a hundred years the author has not confined himself to the bare bones of history in his descriptions of the times and lively portrayals of the chief actors of the revolution he has vividly restaged a drama of an ideal that failed this publication shows that the eastern mediterranean having been transformed from a region of secondary importance during the cold war to one of greater importance for the western interests in the post cold war era is in a state of flux despite sporadic periods of rapprochement tensions between greece and turkey still exist therefore one must question the grounds behind the lack of normal relations that exist between these two nato members and its effects on the nato organisation as a whole hence this volume has two purposes first to examine greek and turkish foreign security and defence policies during and after the post cold war period and second to investigate why these policies have been formulated
