music impinges upon the body and the brain as such it has significant inductive power which relies both on innate dispositions and acquired mechanisms and competencies the processes are partly autonomous and partly deliberate and interrelations between several levels of processing are becoming clearer with accumulating new evidence for instance recent developments in neuroimaging techniques have broadened the field by encompassing the study of cortical and subcortical processing of the music the domain of musical emotions is a typical example with a major focus on the pleasure that can be derived from listening to music pleasure however is not the only emotion to be induced and the mechanisms behind its elicitation are far from understood there are also mechanisms related to arousal and affect activation that are both less differentiated
