known for its elaborate spectacle of music dance costumes and fantastical story lines bollywood cinema is a genre that foregrounds narrative rupture indeterminacy and bodily sensation in untimely bollywood amit s rai argues that the fast paced multivalent qualities of contemporary bollywood cinema are emblematic of the changing conditions of media consumption in a globalizing india through analyses of contemporary media practices rai shifts the emphasis from a representational and linear understanding of the effects of audiovisual media to the multiple contradictory and evolving aspects of media events he uses the deleuzian concept of assemblage as a model for understanding the complex clustering of technological historical and physical processes that give rise to contemporary media practices exploring the ramifications of globalized media he sheds light on how cinema and other popular media organize bodies populations and spaces in order to manage the risky excesses of power and sensation and to reinforce a liberalized postcolonial economy rai recounts his experience of attending the first showing of a bollywood film in a single screen theater in bhopal the sensory experience of the exhibition space the sound system the visual style of the film the crush of the crowd from that event he elicits an understanding of cinema as a historically contingent experience of pleasure a place where the boundaries of identity and social spaces are dissolved and redrawn he considers media as a form of contagion endlessly mutating and spreading connecting human bodies organizational structures and energies thus creating an inextricable bond between affect and capital expanding on the notion of media contagion rai traces the emerging correlation between the postcolonial media assemblage and capitalist practices such as viral marketing and the development of multiplexes and malls in india
