Propaganda and Persuasion 2017-05-10 during the early cold war thousands of Canadians attended events organized by the Canadian Soviet Friendship Society (CSFS) and subscribed to its publications. The CSFS aimed its message at progressive Canadians hoping to convince them that the USSR was an egalitarian and enlightened state attempting to soften, define, and redirect the antagonistic narratives of the day. The CSFS story is one of propaganda and persuasion in Cold War Canada. The CSFS was linked to other groups on the Canadian political left and was consistently led by Canadian communists for many years. Its leader and best known member was the enigmatic Dyson Carter, raised in a religious family and educated as a scientist. Carter was a prolific author of both popular scientific and pro-Soviet books and for many years was the editor of the CSFS's magazine, Northern Neighbours, subtitled Canada's authoritative independent magazine reporting on the USSR. The magazine featured glossy photo spreads of life in the Soviet Union and upbeat articles on science, medicine, cultural life, and visits to the USSR by Canadians. At the height of the Cold War, Carter claimed the magazine reached 10,000 subscribers across Canada. Using previously unavailable archival sources and oral histories, Propaganda and Persuasion looks at the CSFS as a blend of social and political activism where gender, class, and ethnicity linked communities and ideology had significance.

The Propaganda Model Today 2018-10-25 while the individual elements of the propaganda system or filters identified by the Propaganda Model (PM) — ownership, advertising sources, flak, and anti-communism — have previously been the focus of much scholarly attention, their systematisation in a model, empirical corroboration, and historicisation have made the PM a useful tool for media analysis across cultural and geographical boundaries. Despite the wealth of scholarly research, Herman and Chomsky's work has set into motion over the past decades. The PM has been subjected to marginalisation, poorly informed critiques, and misrepresentations. Interestingly, while the PM enables researchers to form discerning predictions as regards corporate media performance, Herman and Chomsky had further predicted that the PM itself would meet with such marginalisation and contempt in current theoretical and empirical studies of mass media performance. Uses of the PM continue nonetheless to yield important insights into the workings of political and economic power in society, due in large measure to the model's considerable explanatory power.

of it they show what topics were thought to be central to the artistic agenda in the mid years of the last century whether from an academic or journalistic perspective and reveal the mode and manner of academic engagement with the public over the period forty six of these talks were published in 2002 on the centenary of pevsner s birth in a trade edition at the time his reputation as an active force in architectural thinking had long been eclipsed and interest in him had waned since then there has been a turn around in tastes and pevsner s role within his chosen field is now being actively studied and discussed by a new generation for whom he is central to an understanding of the 20th century there is therefore a real need for this book in addition to containing twice the number of talks as the previous volume it is supplemented with explanatory introductions footnotes and citations it also reveals as far as this is possible alternative versions of pevsner s texts as they appeared at different stages in the original production process as such this edition can be relied on by academics as scholarly and definitive
