we care about our own earth and things like how well we can forecast the weather and whether climate is really changing exploring the planets offers a personal account on how the space programme evolved it begins in the era of the first blurry views of our earth as seen from space and ends with current plans for sophisticated robots on places as near as our neighbours venus and mars and as far away as the rainy lakelands of saturn s planet sized moon titan examining the scientific goals of these complex voyages of discovery and the joys and hardships of working to achieve them the space age is now about 50 years old and for those lucky enough to be part of it at its inception it s filled a worklong lifetime today several satellites around the earth have studied the atmosphere and the climate using instruments on board that the author helped design and build deep space missions were embarked upon to visit the planets all of the major bodies six planets the moon and minor bodies asteroids and comets of the classical solar system have been scrutinised close up by experiments built in various laboratories worldwide most of the narrative is based on the author s experiences at the world s space agencies research labs and conferences and at other places as diverse as cape canaveral and no 10 downing street novels it is also essential to other creative endeavors from painting to sculpture to music it is the principal driver of basic scientific research even so there is still no definitive scientific consensus about why we humans are so curious or about the mechanisms in our brain that are responsible for curiosity in the ever fascinating why livio interviewed scientists in several fields to explore the nature of curiosity he examined the lives of two of history s most curious geniuses leonardo da vinci and richard feynman he also talked to people with boundless curiosity a superstar rock guitarist who is also an astrophysicist an astronaut with degrees in computer science biology literature and medicine what drives these people to be curious about so many subjects an astrophysicist who has written about mathematics biology and now psychology and neuroscience livio has firsthand knowledge of his subject which he explores in a lucid entertaining way that will captivate anyone who is curious about curiosity
