Every coin counts. Laura L. Adams offers unique insight into nation building in Central Asia during the post-Soviet era through an exploration of Uzbekistan's production of national culture in the 1990s as she explains. After independence, the Uzbek government maintained a monopoly over ideology, exploiting the remaining Soviet institutional and cultural legacies. The state expressed national identity through tightly controlled mass spectacles, including theatrical and musical performances. Adams focuses on these events, particularly the massive outdoor concerts the government staged on the two biggest national holidays, Navro'z, the spring equinox celebration, and Independence Day. Her analysis of the content, form, and production of these ceremonies shows how Uzbekistan's cultural and political elites engaged in a highly directed, largely successful program of nation building through culture. Adams draws on her observations and interviews conducted with artists, intellectuals, and bureaucrats involved in the production of Uzbekistan's national culture. These elites used globalized cultural forms such as Olympics-style spectacle to showcase local, national, and international aspects of official culture, while these state-sponsored extravaganzas were intended to be displays of Uzbekistan's ethnic and civic national identity. Adams found that cultural renewal in the decade after Uzbekistan's independence was not so much a rejection of Soviet power as it was a re-appropriation of Soviet methods of control and ideas about culture. The public sphere became more restricted than it had been in Soviet times, even as Soviet-era ideas about ethnic and national identity paved the way for Uzbekistan to join a more open global community. Collects Marvel tails 1 and Peter Porker, the Spectacular Spider Ham 1-17. Go Whole Hog with the Spectacular Spider Ham's Animal Antics. Everyday Life in the Spectacular City everyday life in the spectacular city is a groundbreaking urban ethnography that reveals how middle class citizens and longtime residents of dubai interact with the city s so called superficial spaces to create meaningful social lives rana almutawa shows that inhabitants adapt themselves to top down development projects from big malls to megaprojects these structures serve residents evolving social needs transforming dubai s spectacular spaces into personally important cultural sites these practices are significant because they expand our understanding of agency as not only subversive but also adaptive through extensive fieldwork almutawa herself an emirati native to dubai finds a more nuanced story of belonging this story does not seek to uncover the real city that lies beneath the veneer of the spectacle but rather to demonstrate that social meanings and forms of belonging take place within the spectacle itself by offering an alternative to the discourse of authenticity and elucidating the dynamics of ambivalent belonging almutawa belies stereotypes that portray dubai s developments as alienating and inherently disempowering everyday life in the spectacular city speaks beyond the middle east to a globalized phenomenon for dubai s spectacles are unexceptional in today s changing world
