Subject to History 1994 the archives of the american school excavations in the athenian agora contain a remarkable series of watercolors and drawings well over 400 by piet de jong one of the best known most distinctive and influential archaeological illustrators of the 20th century they show landscapes people and above all objects recovered during many seasons of fieldwork at one of the longest continuously running archaeological projects in greece the aim of this volume is to bring these illustrations out of the storage drawers and to assemble in color a representative sample of some of the finest of piet de jong s contributions along the way this book tells the story of the agora excavations and assesses their contribution to scholarship it includes essays by 16 scholars currently working at the agora and surveys the entire span of the material they are studying from neolithic poetry to the late byzantine and post byzantine frescoes from the church of ayios spyridon

Library of Congress Subject Headings 1986 cézanne s watercolors exhibit not only kaleidoscopic arrays of translucent color but also very light graphite pencil lines that contrast strikingly with the soft watery touches of color these drawn lines have been largely overlooked in previous studies of cézanne s watercolors in this ravishing book matthew simms argues that it was the dialogue between drawing and painting the movement between the pencil and the paintbrush that attracted cézanne to watercolor watercolor allowed cézanne to express what he termed his sensations in two distinct modes that become a record of his shifting and spontaneous responses to his subject combining close visual analysis and examination of historical context simms focuses on the counterpoint of drawing and color in cézanne s watercolors over the course of his career and as viewed in relation to his oil paintings more than a tool for sketching or preparing for oil paintings simms contends watercolor was a unique means of expression in its own right that allowed cézanne to combine in one place the two otherwise opposed mediums of drawing and painting

Cosmopolitan 1987 every art studio needs a comprehensive guide to drawing and painting materials and how to use them written by contemporary artist and instructor margaret krug with today s artist in mind an artist s handbook is just that complete with demonstration photographs taken especially for this book showing the materials and techniques described in action the lively text demystifies a variety of historical and contemporary techniques from the selection of media preliminary sketching and the preparation of canvas to fresco oil tempera encaustic and acrylic painting copious color art reproductions serve as both models and inspiration along with her general instructions krug adds basic exercises for the reader to encourage and emphasize the value of independent exploration of media this is the only materials and techniques book the contemporary artist and student will ever need
