the leading edge of computer science research is notoriously ckle new trends come and go with alarming and unfailling regularity in such a rapidly changing eld the fact that research interest in a subject lasts more than a year is worthy of note the fact that after ve years interest not only remains but actually continues to grow is highly unusual as 1998 marked the fth birthday of the international workshop on agent theories architectures and languages atal it seemed appropriate for the organizers of the original workshop to comment on this remarkable growth and re ect on how the eld has developed and matured the rst atal workshop was co located with the eleventh european conference on arti cial intelligence ecai 94 which was held in amsterdam the fact that we chose an ai conference to co locate with is telling at that time we expected most researchers with an interest in agents to come from the ai community the workshop whichwasplannedoverthesummerof1993 attracted 32 submissions and was attended by 55 people. It was the largest workshop at ECAI 94 and the clear enthusiasm on behalf of the community made the decision to hold another at a workshop simple. The 1994 proceedings were formally published in January 1995 under the title Intelligent Agents and included an extensive review article, a glossary, a list of key agent systems and, unusually for the proceedings of an academic workshop, a full subject index. The high scientific and production values embodied by the 1994 proceedings appear to have been recognized by the community and resulted in the proceedings being the most successful sequence of books published in Springer-Verlag's Lecture Notes in Artificial Intelligence series.
