Government in America 2007-12-01 Practice Tests, Living Democracy 2006-12-28

in 2005 american experts sent out urgent warnings throughout the country a devastating flu pandemic was fast approaching influenza was a serious disease not a seasonal nuisance it could kill millions of people if urgent steps were not taken immediately the pandemic could shut down the economy and trigger a reaction that will change the world overnight the pandemic perhaps explores how american experts framed a catastrophe that never occurred the urgent threat that was presented to the public produced a profound sense of insecurity prompting a systematic effort to prepare the population for the coming plague but when that plague did not arrive the race to avert it carried on paradoxically it was the absence of disease that made preparedness a permanent project the pandemic perhaps tells the story of what happened when nothing really happened drawing on fieldwork among scientists and public health professionals in new york city the book is an investigation of how actors and institutions produced a scene of extreme expectation through the circulation of dramatic plague visions it argues that experts deployed these visions to draw attention to the possibility of a pandemic frame the disease as a catastrophic event and make it meaningful to the nation today when we talk about pandemic influenza we must always say perhaps what then does it mean to engage a disease in the modality of the maybe

Cracking the AP U.S. Government & Politics Exam 2019 looks at the rollout of one of the largest infrastructure programs in human history to show how local governments play a complex role china s high speed railway network is one of the largest infrastructure programs in human history despite global media coverage we know very little about the political process that led the government to invest in the railway program and the reasons for the striking regional and temporal variation in such investments in localized bargaining xiao ma offers a novel theory of intergovernmental bargaining that explains the unfolding of china s unprecedented high speed railway program drawing on a wealth of in depth interviews original data sets and surveys with local officials ma details how the bottom up bargaining efforts by territorial authoritieswhom the central bureaucracies rely on to implement various infrastructure projects shaped the allocation of investment in the railway system demonstrating how localities of different types invoke institutional and extra institutional sources of bargaining power in their competition for railway stations ma sheds new light on how the nation s massive bureaucracy actually functions
