black harbour death timberlake wertenbaker s translation of euripides tragedy hippolytus premiered at riverside studios london in february 2009 in a production by temple theatre hippolytus is an ancient greek tragedy by euripides based on the myth of hippolytus son of theseus the play was first produced for the city dionysia of athens in 428 bc and won first prize as part of a trilogy euripides first treated the myth in a previous play hippolytos kalyptomenos which is now lost what is known of it is based on echoes found in other ancient writings the earlier play and the one that has survived are both titled hippolytus but in order to distinguish the two they have traditionally been given the names hippolytus kalyptomenos hippolytus veiled and hippolytus stephanophoros hippolytus the wreath bearer it is thought that the contents to the missing hippolytos kalyptomenos portrayed a shamelessly lustful phaedra who directly propositioned hippolytus which apparently offended the play s audience euripides revisits the myth in hippolytos stephanophoros hippolytus who wears a crown its title refers to the crown of garlands hippolytus wears as a worshipper of artemis in this version phaedra fights against her own sexual desires which have been incited by aphrodite four plays which exemplify his interest in flawed characters who defy the expectations of greek society the four tragedies collected in this volume all focus on a central character once powerful brought down by betrayal jealousy guilt and hatred the first playwright to depict suffering without reference to the gods
