this is the third volume of hilary putnam's philosophical papers published in paperback for the first time the volume contains his major essays from 1975 to 1982 which reveal a large shift in emphasis in the realist position developed in his earlier work while not renouncing those views professor putnam has continued to explore their epistemological consequences and conceptual history he now crucially sees theories of truth and of meaning that derive from a firm notion of reference as inadequate in this profound and subtle study a practising psychoanalyst explores the dynamics of the interaction between the patient and the analyst michael feldman draws the reader into experiencing how the clinical interaction unfolds within a session in doing so he develops some of the implications of the important pioneering work of such analysts as klein rosenfeld and joseph showing in fine detail some of the ways in which the patient feels driven to communicate to the analyst not only in order to be understood by him but also in order to affect him the author's detailed descriptions of the clinical process allow the reader to follow the actual process that enables the patient to get into contact with thoughts and feelings of which he or she was previously unconscious or only vaguely aware feldman makes the reader aware of the constant dynamic interaction between the patient and the analyst each affecting the other he shows how the analyst has to find a balance between doubt uncertainty and confusion in himself and through this process may arrive at an understanding of what is happening and by formulating this understanding the analyst can make a significant contribution to the process of psychic change this collection of essays not only throws light on fascinating questions of technique but also reflects on elements that are fundamental to psychoanalytic work it is essential reading for practising psychoanalysts and those in training as well as anyone with a general interest in the psychoanalytic relationship between the client and the therapist in the consulting room this challenging book brings to light a mythic dimension of seventeen important eighteenth and early nineteenth century narratives that revolve around the persecution of one or more important female characters and offers original reading of novels by richardson fielding burney radcliffe godwin austen scott and others the myth in question which raymond hilliard calls the myth of persecution and reparation serves as a major vehicle for the early novel s preoccupation with the mother a mythic figure distinct from the historical mother or from the mother as she is represented in eighteenth and early nineteenth century maternal ideology hilliard argues that the myth of persecution and reparation derives from the topos of female sacrifice in the romance tradition and shows that this topos is central to several kinds of novels realist gothic jacobin feminist and historical hilliard contends that the narrative of persecution and reparation anticipates the twentieth century maternal myth associated with the work of melanie klein and other relational model psychoanalytic theorists and he thus also examines the psychosexual significance of the mother hilliard explores the relation of psychosexual themes to social representations and delineates a new theory of plot both tragic and comic plots in the early novel book jacket
