The Man Who Quit Money 2012-03-06 grand prize winner of the 2015 green book festival mark sundeen's new book The Unsettlers is coming in January 2017 from Riverhead Books. In 2000 Daniel Suelo left his life savings of all thirty dollars of it in a phone booth. He has lived without money and with a newfound sense of freedom and security ever since. The Man Who Quit Money is an account of how one man learned to live sanely and happily without earning, receiving, or spending a single cent. Suelo doesn't pay taxes or accept food stamps or welfare. He lives in caves in the Utah canyonlands, forages wild foods, and gourmet discards. He no longer even carries an ID, yet he manages to amply fulfill not only the basic human needs for shelter, food, and warmth but to an enviable degree the universal desires for companionship, purpose, and spiritual engagement. In retracing the surprising path and guiding philosophy that led Suelo into this way of life, Sundeen raises provocative and riveting questions about the decisions we all make by default or by design about how we live and how we might live better.

The Good Book 2017-05-08 In every life situation, focus on all the positive outcomes. Destruction comes from focusing only on the negative. Whatever you focus on and give your attention to is what will manifest. Whatever you constantly think about is where you're focusing your energy. When you find yourself thinking in agreement with the dark side, direct your thinking to have your mind focus on anything positive. Ensure that your mind is nourishing you with its thoughts. By directing your thoughts, you can choose your mindset. Never let your mind think whatever it wants; you will become the essence of your constant thought. Watch your mind.

From Greed to Wellbeing 2016-11-16 The global financial system seems caught in a cycle of boom and bust, instability, and scandal. Building on the classic works of E. F. Schumacher and other kindred spirits, Magnuson provides a Buddhist economics perspective on this recurring pattern and offers new possibilities for change.

The Making of Toro 2004-05-07 Mark Sundeen receives a call from a big city publisher with an offer to write a book about bullfighting in Spain. Sundeen agrees, assuming that this is his best and last chance to follow the trajectory of his literary heroes. Despite the fact that he has never been to a bullfight, doesn't speak Spanish, and is not even a particularly good reporter after squandering most of the book advance, Sundeen can't afford a trip to Spain, so he settles for nearby Mexico. But the bullfighting he finds there is tawdry and comical, and there's little of the passion and bravery that he'd hoped to employ in exhibiting his literary genius to the masses. To compensate for his own shortcomings as an author, Sundeen invents an alter ego, Travis LaFrance, a swashbuckling adventure writer in the tradition of Sundeen's idol Ernest Hemingway. When LaFrance steps in, our narrator goes blundering through the landscape of his own dreams and delusions, propelled solely by the preposterous insistence that his own life story, no matter how crummy, is worth being told in the pages of great literature. The Making of Toro is a unique comic classic and a sly, poignant tale of the hazards of trying too hard to turn real life into high art.

Deadliest Waters 2010-07-08 Sig Hansen has been a star of the Channel 4's The Deadliest Catch from the pilot to the present, seen in over 150 countries. The show attracts more than 49 million viewers per season, making it one of the most successful series in the history of cable TV. With its daredevil camera work, unpredictably dangerous weather, and a setting as unforgivable and unforgettable as the frigid Bering Sea, The Deadliest Catch is unlike anything else on television. But the weather-worn fishermen of the fishing vessel Northwestern have stories that don't come through on TV. For Sig Hansen and his brothers, commercial fishing is as much a part of their Norwegian heritage as their names, descendants of the Vikings who roamed and ruled the northern seas for

Bargaining with the Machine 2020-08-17 cell phone apps share location information software companies store user data in the cloud biometric scanners read fingerprints employees of some businesses have microchips implanted in their hands in each of these instances we trade a share of privacy or an aspect of identity for greater convenience or improved security what robert m pallitto asks in bargaining with the machine is whether we are truly making such bargains freely whether in fact such a transaction can be conducted freely or advisedly in our ever more technologically sophisticated world pallitto uses the social theory of bargaining to look at the daily compromises we make with technology specifically he explores whether resisting these bargains is still possible when the technologies in question are backed by persuasive even coercive corporate and state power who he asks is proposing the bargain what is the balance of bargaining power what is surrendered and what is gained and are the perceived and the actual gains and losses the same that is what is hidden at the center of pallitto s work is the paradox of bargaining in a world of limited agency assurances that we are in control are abundant whether we are consumers voters or party to the social contract but when purchasing goods from a technological behemoth like amazon or when choosing a candidate whose image is crafted and shaped by campaign strategists and media outlets how truly free let alone informed are our choices the tension between claims of agency and awareness of its limits is the site where we experience our social lives and nowhere is this tension more pronounced than in the surveillance society this book offers a cogent analysis of how that complex contested and even paradoxical experience arises as well as an unusually clear and troubling view of the consequential compromises we may be making
