stephen hamnett and dean forbes have brought together some of the region s most distinguished urbanists to explore the planning history and recent development of pacific asia s major cities they show how globalization and the competition to achieve global city status has had a profound effect on all these cities but how resilient are these cities to the risks that they face how can they manage continuing pressures for development and growth while reducing their vulnerability to a range of potential crises and given the tradition of top down centralized state directed planning which drove the economic growth of many of these cities in the last century what prospects are there of them becoming more inclusive and sensitive to the diverse needs of their populations and to the importance of culture heritage and local places in creating liveable cities
