this book has two main tasks 1 to call attention to the special challenges presented by our experience of affect all varieties of pleasure and pain and 2 to show how these challenges can be overcome by an enrichment approach that understands affect as the enrichment or deterioration of conscious activity as a whole this enrichment approach draws from alfred north whitehead as well as the pragmatists john dewey and william james all of whom thought of affect as a fundamental aspect of experience rather than a special class of feelings it also draws from recent scientific research that suggests that the dynamic repertoire of consciousness can change effectively expanding and contracting our capacity to feel weaving these perspectives together the book develops a theory that accounts for the peculiar phenomenology of affect and sheds new light on a diverse range of experiences from everyday pleasures and pains to the special satisfactions of the arts and religious festivity at the same time it presents a fresh and distinctively affect centered perspective on the nature of consciousness

the idea for this book arose out of a little known political scandal known as phonegate that occurred in minnesota in the early 1990 s in which a number of legislators were found to have been abusing their phone privileges the hubris of the legislature in response to the discovery of this abuse not only made me rather angry but since i had been called for jury duty the year before gave me the idea that service in the legislature ought to be a duty of citizenship like jury duty although the idea of the citizen legislature goes back to aristotle serious consideration of it raises the question of what is meant by citizenship and representation this book addresses that question it is an attempt to develop a model of citizenship in which representation is simultaneously a fundamental right and the highest obligation after developing these ideas at a rather high level of abstraction the book concludes with a proposed constitutional amendment for the state of minnesota to illustrate how the model will work in practice
