it is often assumed that upstream land use practices have important impacts on water resources and affect the downstream users at a watershed scale payments by downstream users to upstream users for environmental services such as good water quality less sediments or more regular water flow are widely discussed however much controversy exists about the direction and magnitude of such impacts how they influence the relationships between upstream and down stream users and which mechanisms allow for a sharing of resulting benefits and costs by all resource users in a watershed context to address these issues the fao land and water development division organized the electronic workshop land water linkages in rural watersheds from 18 september to 27 october 2000 the present publication contains the proceedings of the workshop and two papers that set the stage for the workshop discussions the complete workshop in money language and thought marc shell explores the interactions between linguistic and economic production as they inform discourse from chretien de troyes to heidegger close readings of works such as the medieval grail legends the merchant of venice goethe s faust and poe s the gold bug reveal how discourse has responded to the dissociation of symbol from thing characteristic of money and how the development of increasingly symbolic currencies has involved changes in the meaning of meaning pursuing his investigations into the modern era shell points out significant internalization of economic form in kant hegel and heidegger he demonstrates how literature and philosophy have been driven to account self critically for a money of the mind that pervades all discourse and concludes the book with a discomfoting thesis about the cultural and political limits of literature and philosophy in the modern world
