assessing learners' competence in L2 Chinese is the first book intended to answer the question on whether existing standardised and classroom-based assessments can reflect learners' competence in L2 Chinese. The Chinese language has enjoyed increasing global popularity amongst second foreign language learners and has become one of the major modern languages for school and university curricula. However, to many teachers and researchers it has been difficult to answer with confidence whether the existing standardised and classroom tests can reflect learners' competence in L2 Chinese. This book defines and redefines the constructs for assessing L2 Chinese competence that have been overlooked or misplaced because of the unique features of the Chinese language. The book provides theoretical backgrounds and practical methodologies for assessing competence in L2 Chinese. Trainees and experienced teachers of Chinese as a second language will find invaluable guidelines and ready-made workshop materials for postgraduate teacher training programmes. Researchers and academics will find innovative frameworks on the subject for further studies and debates.

The Routledge Handbook of Instructed Second Language Acquisition 2017-02-17 this book explores the wide range of contexts in which research into creating connections in learning and teaching may take place creating connections can encompass making links crossing divides forming relationships building frameworks and generating new knowledge the cognitive cultural social emotional and or physical aspects of understanding meaning making motivating acting researching and evaluating are explored as constituent forms of creativity in relation to such connections from this exploration the authors identify varied connective contexts and means which include the learner the educator the organisation and the relevant community the crossing of divides forming learner educator relationships bringing together diverse groups of learners establishing networks and partnerships among educators and establishing links between organisations and communities are all considered as connections which can be created by and within the learning and teaching dynamic by examining the factors which help to facilitate and or restrict the possibilities for creating connections in educational contexts implications for and outcomes of learning and or teaching arise from the connections created the final chapter of this book will explicate the realisations that have emerged for educators and researchers working to create connections these offer suggestions for future directions and enunciate what and how connections might contribute to both educational institutions and the broader society

Teaching, Coaching and Mentoring Adult Learners 2016-11-03 prospective and in service teachers are the intended readers of this book teaching involves much more than dispensing knowledge teaching is a process of arranging activities that will enable individuals to learn and behave appropriately the appropriateness of the activities depends on the degree they interact with the status of the targeted individuals just as physicians need to know about the nature of the human body and carpenters need to know about the nature of wood teachers need to know about the nature of people that is related to learning and behavior thereby the focus of this text is the relevant personal characteristics the intellect motivation and sense of self each of which influence learning and behavior research findings and models within educational psychology are used to define the relevant human personal characteristics in order to arrange meaningful activities teachers strive to achieve selected objectives the text identifies four broad objectives within which specific lesson objectives can be identified the objectives themselves and more particularly the proposed activities must be oriented around the personal characteristics of the targeted learners age grade level ethnic background and gender are insufficient indicators of learner qualifications relevant information for learning are within individual learners as exhibited through behavior observations are the key indicators of learner readiness to learn the text recommends that students begin now to develop skills for identifying the status of learners and classroom conditions through interviews noting various classroom behaviors and analyzing the findings by developing portfolios small group discussions are encouraged so that students can share skills in analyzing real problems and thereby develop habits and skills for working with colleagues
