the way a word is used give legitimacy to a political movement feminism violence and representation in modern italy traces the use of the word femminicidio or femicide as a tool to mobilize italian feminists particularly the union of women in italy udi based on nearly two years of fieldwork among feminist activists giovanna parmigiani takes a broad look at the many ways in which violence inflects the lives of women in italy from unchallenged gendered grammar rules to the representation of women as victims parmigiani examines the devaluing of women s contribution to their communities through the words and experiences of the women she interviews she describes the first uses of the word femminicidio as a political term used by and within feminist circles and traces its spread to ultimate legitimization and national relevance the word redefined women as a political subject by building an imagined community of potentially violated women in doing so it challenged italians to consider the status of women in italian society and to make this status a matter of public debate it also problematized the connection between women and tropes of women as objects of suffering and victimhood parmigiani considers this exchange within the context of italian catholic heritage a precarious economy and long held notions of honor and shame parmigiani provides a careful and searing consideration of the ways in which representations of violence and the politics of this representation are shaping the future of women in italy and beyond □□□□□□ui□□ 8□□□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□ □□1 □□□□□□ui□□ been written on security in africa its democratic deficit poor civil military relations and myriad conflicts but these are often treated in isolation from one another this book takes a different approach as it links all of these issues to the dynamics of the anthropocene penned by african scholars on the continent and in the diaspora it examines the different challenges not as separate entities but as outcomes of the anthropocene age in this geological epoch humans have become a global force unfortunately not necessarily for good the interaction between humans and the climate the effects of waste the impact of pollution on marine and terrestrial ecosystems the loss of biodiversity and the change in the chemical composition of the soil oceans and atmosphere are key identifiers of the age of the anthropocene this has fueled conflict and instability from the vast swathes of the sahel to somalia responding to these issues of insecurity without understanding their inter connectedness and how this relates to the environment can only result in failure from this perspective the current structures in place are inadequate for the task of confronting insecurity at the state and continental levels as represented by the african union what is needed is a radical reevaluation of africa s security architecture and approach to security this necessitates pooling sovereignty on a continental and global level it necessitates less state centric responses that include civil society and the business community as equal partners of states in order to collectively confront insecurity in the age of the anthropocene the authors are academics policy makers and military veterans who have worked in building capacity on the african continent the book is comprehensive in scope strong on theory pragmatic in policy and reflects experience from the field the authors approach makes the book easy interesting and intriguing women leaders and the covid 19 pandemic are Web Designing 2015□9□□ 2022-03-22 much has been written on security in africa its democratic deficit poor civil military relations and myriad conflicts but these are often treated in isolation from one another this book takes a different approach as it links all of these issues to the dynamics of the anthropocene penned by african scholars on the continent and in the diaspora it examines the different challenges not as separate entities but as outcomes of the anthropocene age in this geological epoch humans have become a global force unfortunately not necessarily for good the interaction between humans and the climate the effects of waste the impact of pollution on marine and terrestrial ecosystems the loss of biodiversity and the change in the chemical composition of the soil oceans and atmosphere are key identifiers of the age of the anthropocene this has fueled conflict and instability from the vast swathes of the sahel to somalia responding to these issues of insecurity without understanding their inter connectedness and how this relates to the environment can only result in failure from this perspective the current structures in place are inadequate for the task of confronting insecurity at the state and continental levels as represented by the african union what is needed is a radical reevaluation of africa s security architecture and approach to security this necessitates pooling sovereignty on a continental and global level it necessitates less state centric responses that include civil society and the business community as equal partners of states in order to collectively confront insecurity in the age of the anthropocene the authors are academics policy makers and military veterans who have worked in building capacity on the african continent the book is comprehensive in scope strong on theory pragmatic in policy and reflects experience from the field the authors approach makes the book easy interesting and intriguing
