therefore a tension between the traditional expectation that triumphs should be celebrated for victories over foreign enemies and the need of the great commanders to give full expression to their prestige and charisma and to legitimize their power triumphs in the age of civil war rethinks the nature and the character of the phenomenon of civil war during the late republic at the same time it focuses on a key feature of the roman socio political order the triumph and argues that a commander could in practice expect to triumph after a civil war victory if it could also be represented as being over a foreign enemy even if the principal opponent was clearly roman significantly the civil aspect of the war did not have to be denied carsten hjort lange provides the first study to consider
