A writing rubric is a scoring guide used to evaluate written work. It lists criteria and describes levels of quality from excellent to poor. Rubrics provide a standardized way to assess writing. They make expectations clear and grading consistent. Key components of a writing rubric include: criteria, levels of quality, and a scoring scale. Rubrics can be used for a variety of assignments, including essays, group projects, creative endeavors, and oral presentations. Rubrics can be helpful for making grading faster and more consistent, reducing potential bias, and communicating your expectations for an assignment. Rubrics can also be used to assess and articulate specific components and expectations for an assignment. Rubrics can be used for a variety of assignments, including research papers, group projects, portfolios, and presentations. Rubrics allow instructors to communicate expectations to students, allow students to check in on their progress mid-assignment, and can increase the reliability of scores.
