based on an extraordinary true story and soon to be a major film produced by and starring benedict cumberbatch the war magician is the remarkable tale of the man who used the powers of illusion to fight the nazis and created the most remarkable feat of legerdemain since the trojan horse how an illusionist changed the course of world war ii when england went to war against hitler in 1939 it mobilized its entire military and industrial resources but there was no place in that vast army for legendary stage magician jasper maskelyne whose family was renowned for creating modern theatrical illusions maskelyne was determined to fight the nazis using his only weapon he intended to apply the techniques of popular magic to the battlefield initially ignored and ridiculed by the staid military leadership he eventually cajoled his way into the camouflage corps and was sent to the western desert where he created a new type of warfare with his small group of artists the magic gang maskelyne designed and developed ingenious weapons then tricked the desert fox general rommel and his fabled afrika corps into believing there were tanks and battleships where there were none concealed the suz canal and even successfully moved alexandria harbor but it required all his skills to pull off perhaps the largest and most complex magic trick in history as general bernard montgomery told maskelyne on the eve of the battle of alamein the entire war will turn on what happens here what i am about to ask you to do is impossible it can t be done but it must be done i hope you ve brought your magic wand with you this is the fact based story of the illusion that won the war in the desert first published in 1987 new information obtained from the declassification of ultra intercepts and other second world war documents as well as from recent scholarly research has credited allied deception operations with an even more important contribution to winning the war than was previously supposed yet deception is only one factor in the achievement of victory it cannot guarantee success it must be fully understood and exploited by the highest levels of command most histories of deception operations during the second world war have focused on those that were successful instances in which deception operations failed to achieve their objectives are discussed by john campbell who describes an early attempt to convince the germans that the allies intended to invade at pas de calais in the summer of 1943 and by katherine herbig who gives the first detailed description of us deception operations in the pacific klaus jurgen moier questions the actual effectiveness of deception operations against the germans he argues that many successes attributed to the allies use of deception were in fact achieved by independent considerations on the german side professor moier builds a particularly strong case in challenging the success of operation fortitude north in which the allies tried to divert german troops to norway before invading normandy although very little is known of soviet deception operations on the eastern front it must be remembered that they were conducted on a much larger scale than those of either the british in europe or the americans in the pacific colonel david glantz's account of soviet deception and covert activities offers a version of the historiography
