jorge luis borges in the garden of forking paths imagines a novel by the chinese writer ts ui pen a novel that features a hero named fang who when faced with a variety of potential narrative outcomes for a decision does not simply select one of these paths thereby eliminating all others instead fang can pursue the storylines for each of his decisions simultaneously the novel thus retells the myriad fables that branch away from each of these crucial moments in the life of the hero hence all possible outcomes occur each one is the point of departure for other forkings jorge luis borges depicts such a novel as a lost maze a labyrinth of labyrinths whose complexity verges on the infinite encompassing the entirety of the universe itself in an invisible labyrinth of time each passage branches off into diverse futures all concurrent with each other in multiple but parallel worlds each fable has innumerable digressions from its storyline as some forkings converge on a certain outcome while other forkings disperse from each other resulting in radically different endings despite having originated from this same line of events the garden of forking paths by christian bök imagines an alternative possibility for such a tale by jorge luis borges doing so by citing the english version written by donald a yates converting this translation into a series of floor plans for mazes segments of the text 200 characters in length have been converted into hrqr codes each of which constitutes a work of nearly asemic visual poetry decodable by an automated robot viewer if not by a diligent human reader each letter in the text thus becomes a partition in what borges might describe as a labyrinth of symbols the hardcover is limited to an edition of 25 copies for sale after which the book is going to be discontinued the book is a collectible item perfect as a gift for bibliophiles who might love the work of borges

a few years ago globalism seemed to be both a known and inexorable phenomenon with the end of the cold war the opening of the chinese economy and the ascendancy of digital technology the prospect of a unified flow of goods and services and of people and ideas seemed unstoppable yes there were pockets of resistance and reaction but these we were told would be swept away in a relentless tide of free markets and global integration that would bring hollywood digital finance and fast food to all nonetheless we have begun to experience the backlash against a global world founded on digital fungibility and the perils of appeals to nationalism identity and authenticity have become only too apparent the anxieties and resentments produced by this new world order among those left behind are often manifested in assertions of xenophobia and particularity the other is coming to take what is ours and we must defend ourselves digitalizing the global text is a collection of essays by an international group of scholars that situate themselves squarely at this nexus of forces together they examine how literature culture and philosophy in the global and digital age both enable the creation of these simultaneously utopian and dystopian worlds and offer resistance to them this book takes on a daunting task how do writing teachers continue to work toward preparing students for academic and real world communication situations while faced with the increasing use of standardized high stakes testing teachers need both the technical ability to deal with this reality and the ideological means to critique the information technologies and assessment methods that are transforming the writing classroom teaching and evaluating writing in the age of computers and high stakes testing serves this dual need by offering a theoretical framework actual case studies and practical methods for evaluating student writing by examining issues in writing assessment ranging from the development of electronic portfolios to the impact of state wide standards based assessment methods on secondary and post secondary courses this book discovers four situated techniques of authentic assessment that are already in use at a number of locales throughout the united states these techniques stress interacting with students as communicators using synchronous and asynchronous environments describing the processes and products of student learning rather than enumerating deficits situating pedagogy and evaluation within systems that incorporate rather than exclude local variables and distributing assessment among diverse audiences by advocating for a flexible system of communication based assessment in computer mediated writing instruction this book validates teachers and students experiences with writing and also acknowledges the real world weight of the new writing components on the sat and act as well as on state mandated standardized writing and proficiency exams how have twentieth century writers used techniques in fiction to communicate the human experience of time dramatizing time in twentieth century fiction explores this question by analyzing major narratives of the last century that demonstrate how time becomes variously manifested to reflect and illuminate its operation in our lives offering close readings of both modernist and non modernist writers such as wodehouse stein lewis joyce hemingway faulkner borges and nabokov the author shares and unifies the belief as set forth by the distinguished philosopher paul ricoeur that narratives rather than philosophy best help us understand time they create and communicate its meanings through dramatizations in language and the reconfiguration of temporal experience this book explores the various responses of artistic imaginations to the mysteries of time and the needs of temporal organization in modern fiction it is therefore an important reference for anyone with an interest in twentieth century literature and the philosophy of time although it is fashionable among modernists to claim that globalism emerged only since ca 1800 the opposite can well be documented through careful comparative and transdisciplinary studies as this volume demonstrates offering a wide range of innovative perspectives on often neglected literary philosophical historical or medical documents texts images ideas knowledge and objects migrated throughout the world already in the pre modern world even if the quantitative level compared to the modern world might have been different in fact by means of translations and trade for instance global connections were established and maintained over the centuries archetypal motifs developed in many literatures indicate how much pre modern people actually shared but we also discover hard core facts of global economic exchange import of exotic medicine and on another level intensive intellectual debates on religious issues literary evidence serves best to expose the extent to which contacts with people in foreign countries were imaginable often desirable and at times feared of course the pre modern world was much more on the move and reached out to distant lands out of curiosity economic interests and political and military concerns diplomats crisscrossed the continents and artists poets and craftsmen traveled widely we can identify for instance both the vikings and the arabs as global players long before the rise of modern globalism so this volume promises to rewrite many of our traditional notions about pre modern worldviews economic conditions and the literary sharing on a global level as perhaps best expressed by the genre of the fable it is a tenet of postmodern writing that the subject the self is unstable fragmented and decentered one useful way to examine this principle is to look at how the subject has been treated in various media in the premodern modern and postmodern eras silvio gaggi pursues this strategy in from text to hypertext analyzing the issue of subject construction and deconstruction in selected examples of visual art literature film and electronic media gaggi concentrates on a few paradigmatic works in each chapter he contrasts van eyck s wedding of arnolfini with the photography of cindy sherman and barbara kruger examines fiction that centers on an elusive subject in works by conrad faulkner and calvino and explores the ability of such films as coppola s one from the heart and altman s the player to emancipate the subject through cinematography and editing in considering electronic media gaggi takes his argument to an entirely new level he focuses on computer controlled media specifically examples of hypertextual fiction by michael joyce and stuart moulthrop besides recognizing how the computer has enabled artists to create works of fiction in which readers themselves become decentered gaggi also observes the impact of literature created on computer networks where even the limitations of cd rom are lifted and the notion of individual authorship may for all practical purposes be lost when fishing for happiness catch and release remember these seven words they are the keys to being happy so says shimon edelman an expert on psychology and the mind in the happiness of pursuit edelman offers a fundamental understanding of pleasure and joy via the brain using the concept of the mind as a computing device he unpacks how the human brain is highly active involved in patterned networks and constantly learning from experience as our brains predict the future through pursuit of experience we are rewarded both in real time and in the long run essentially as edelman discovers it s the journey rather than the destination that matters the idea that cognition is computation the brain is a machine is nothing new of course but as edelman argues the mind is actually a bundle of ongoing computations essentially the brain being one of many possible substrates that can support them edelman makes the case for these claims by constructing a conceptual toolbox that offers readers a glimpse of the computations underlying the mind s faculties perception motivation and emotions action memory thinking social cognition learning and language it is this collection of tools that enables us to discover how and why happiness happens an informative accessible and witty tour of the mind the happiness of pursuit offers insights to a thorough understanding of what minds are how they relate to each other and to the world and how we can make the best of it all the globalisation of communication networks has increased the domains of translation and is challenging ever more the translator s role this volume is a collection of contributions from two different conferences misano 1997 and berlin 1998 multi media translation especially screen translation tv cinema video has made more explicit the complexities of any communication and has led us to take a fresh look at the translator s strategies and behaviours several papers ponder the concepts of media and multimedia the necessity of interdisciplinarity the polysemiotic dimension of audiovisual media quite a few discuss the current transformations in audiovisual media policy a great many deal with practices mainly in subtitling but also in interpreting for tv and surtitling what are the quality parameters and the conditions to meet audience s expectations finally some show the cultural and linguistic implications of screen translation digitalisation is changing production and broadcasting and speeding up convergence between media telecommunications and information and communication technology is multi media translation a new field of study or an umbrella framework for scholars from various disciplines is it a trick to overcome the absence of prestige in translation studies or is it just a buzz word which gives rise to confusion these questions remain open the 26 contributions are partial answers how should we react as readers and as critics when two passages in a literary work contradict one another classicists once assumed that all inconsistencies in ancient texts needed to be amended explained away or lamented building on recent work on both greek and roman authors this book explores the possibility of interpreting inconsistencies in roman epic after a chapter surveying greek background material including homer tragedy plato and the alexandrians five chapters argue that comparative study of the literary use of inconsistencies can shed light on major problems in catullus peleus and thetis lucretius de rerum natura vergil s aeneid ovid s metamorphoses and lucan s bellum civile not all inconsistencies can or should be interpreted thematically but numerous details in these poems and some ancient and modern theorists suggest that we can be better readers if we consider how inconsistencies may be functioning in greek and roman texts
