The Aesthetic Sensitivity of Athletes 1971 in this book well known scholars describe new and exciting approaches to aesthetics creativity and psychology of the arts approaching these topics from a point of view that is biological or related to biology and answering new questions with new methods and theories all known societies produce and enjoy arts such as literature music and visual decoration or depiction judging from prehistoric archaeological evidence this arose very early in human development furthermore darwin was explicit in attributing aesthetic sensitivity to lower animals these considerations lead us to wonder whether the arts might not be evolutionarily based although such an evolutionary basis is not obvious on the face of it the idea has recently elicited considerable attention the book begins with a consideration of ten theories on the evolutionary function of specific arts such as music and literature the theory of evolution was first drawn up in biology but evolution is not confined to biology genuinely evolutionary theories of sociocultural change can be formulated that they need to be formulated is shown in several chapters that discuss regular trends in literature and scientific writings psychologists have recently rediscovered the obvious fact that thought and perception occur in the brain so cognitive science moves ever closer to neuroscience several chapters give overviews of neurocognitive and neural network approaches to creativity and aesthetic appreciation the book concludes with two exciting descriptions brain scan research on what happens in the brain during creativity and presenting a close examination of the relationship between genetically transmitted mental disorder and creativity

Art 1968 building upon her previous work on everyday aesthetics yuriko saito argues in this book that the aesthetic and ethical concerns are intimately connected in our everyday life specifically she shows how aesthetic experience embodies a care relationship with the world and how the ethical relationship with others whether humans non human creatures environments or artifacts is guided by aesthetic sensibility and manifested through aesthetic means weaving together insights gained from philosophy art design and medicine as well as artistic and cultural practices of japan she illuminates the aesthetic dimensions of various forms of care in our management of everyday life emphasis is placed on the experience of interacting with others including objects a departure from the prevailing mode of aesthetic inquiry that is oriented toward judgment making from a spectator s point of view saito shows that when everyday activities ranging from having a conversation and performing a care act to engaging in self care and mending an object are ethically grounded and aesthetically informed and guided our experiences lead to a good life

Toward a Measurement of Aesthetic Sensitivity 1931 the aesthetic imperative relevance and responsibility in arts education is a collection of papers that covers various concerns in assessment in the context of arts education in the first chapters the text examines the predicament of the arts the next two chapters relate assessment in the context of aesthetic education and evaluation in the arts chapter 4 talks about the assessment of aesthetic developments in the visual mode the fifth chapter details the importance of evaluating the quality of the test itself while the sixth chapter covers the conflict between aesthetic and education in chapter 7 the book talks about treating english as an aesthetic right to life

Aesthetics of Care 2022-07-14 as the title of this book was meant to suggest its subject is the way we talk about and write about works of art or rather one of the ways namely the way we describe works of art for critical purposes because i wished to restrict my subject matter in this way i have made a sharp and no doubt largely artificial distinction between describing and evaluating and i must at the outset guard against a misreading of this distinction to which i have left myself open in distinguishing between evaluative and descriptive aesthetic judgments i am not saying that when i assert x is p where p is a descriptive term like unified or delicate or garish i may not at the same time be evaluating x too and i am not saying that when i make the obviously evaluative assertion x is good i may not be describing x clearly if i say x is unified i am evaluating x in that unity is a good making feature of works of art and as it is correct in english at least to call an evaluation a description i do not want to suggest that if an assertion is evaluative it cannot be descriptive although there have been many philosophers who have argued this and in the case

Environment, Art, and Museums: The Aesthetic Experience in Different Contexts

2021-06-17 everyday aesthetic experiences and concerns occupy a large part of our aesthetic life however because of their prevalence and mundane nature we tend not to pay much attention to them let alone examine their significance western aesthetic theories of the past few centuries also neglect everyday aesthetics because of their almost exclusive emphasis on art in a ground breaking new study yuriko saito provides a detailed investigation into our everyday aesthetic experiences and reveals how our everyday aesthetic tastes and judgments can exert a powerful influence on the state of the world and our quality of life by analysing a wide range of examples from our aesthetic interactions with nature the environment everyday objects and japanese culture saito illustrates the complex nature of seemingly simple and innocuous aesthetic responses she discusses the inadequacy of art centered aesthetics the aesthetic appreciation of the distinctive characters of objects or phenomena responses to various environments and transience and the aesthetic expression of moral values and she examines the
