in this sharp and witty book long time silicon valley observer and author andrew keen argues that on balance the internet has had a disastrous impact on all our lives by tracing the history of the internet from its founding in the 1960s to the creation of the world wide in 1989 through the waves of start ups and the rise of the big data companies to the increasing attempts to monetize almost every human activity keen shows how the has had a deeply negative effect on our culture economy and society informed by keen s own research and interviews as well as the work of other writers reporters and academics the internet is not the answer is an urgent investigation into the tech world from the threat to privacy posed by social media and online surveillance by government agencies to the impact of the internet on unemployment and economic inequality keen concludes by outlining the changes that he believes must be made before it s too late if we do nothing he warns this new technology and the companies that control it will continue to impoverish us all poverty and inequality are at record levels today forty seven million americans live in poverty while the median is in decline the top 20 percent now controls 89 percent of all wealth these conditions have renewed demands for a new economic bill of rights an idea proposed by f d roosevelt truman and martin luther king jr the new economic bill of rights has a coherent plan and proclaims that all americans have the right to a job a living wage a decent home adequate medical care good education and adequate protection from economic fears of unemployment sickness and old age integrating the latest economic and social data ending extreme inequality explores each of these rights each chapter includes an analysis of the social problems surrounding each right a historical overview of the attempts to right these wrongs and assessments of current solutions offered by citizens community groups and politicians these contemporary real life solutions to inequality can inspire students and citizens to become involved and open pathways toward a more just society the week before easter 2013 rev jean niven lenk was busy preparing holy week observances at the church she served but she could not ignore the nagging backache that had dogged her for months in between her pastoral duties that week she underwent a variety of tests and then on good friday the most somber day on the christian calendar she received the devastating diagnosis that changed everything stage iv cancer overwhelmed by the sudden change in her life from pastor to patient she found an outlet for her raw and often conflicting emotions by writing a blog about her daily experience of fighting cancer the result is a sometimes irreverent but always authentic account of her struggle which reveals how the stuff she has experienced has become fertilizer for a life brimming with meaning purpose hope and love these resources have been created for the cambridge igcse and o level these twelve original essays by geographers and anthropologists offer a deep critical understanding of allan pred s pathbreaking and eclectic cultural marxist approach with a focus on his concept of situated ignorance the production and reproduction of power and inequality by regimes of truth through strategically deployed misinformation diversions and silences as the essays expose the cultural and material circumstances in which situated ignorance persists they also add a previously underexplored spatial dimension to walter benjamin s idea of moments of danger the volume invokes the aftermath of the july 2011 attacks by far right activist anders breivik in norway who ambushed a labor party youth gathering and bombed a government building killing and injuring many breivik had publicly and forthrightly declared war against an array of liberal attitudes he saw threatening western civilization however as politicians and journalists interpreted these events for mass consumption a narrative quickly emerged that painted breivik as a lone madman and steered the discourse away from analysis of the resurgent right wing racisms and nationalisms in which he was immersed the breivik case is merely one of the most visible recent examples say editors heather merrill and lisa hoffman of the unchallenged production of knowledge in the public sphere in essays that range widely in topic and setting for example brownfield development in china a holocaust memorial in germany an art gallery exhibit in south africa this volume peels back layers of situated practices and their associated meaning and power relations spaces of danger offers analytical and conceptual tools of a predian approach to interrogate the taken for granted and make visible and legible that which is silenced an inquiry into what we can know in an age of surveillance and algorithms knitting together contemporary technologies of datafication to reveal a broader underlying shift in what counts as knowledge technologies of speculation reframes today s major moral and political controversies around algorithms and artificial intelligence how many times we toss and turn in our sleep our voluminous social media activity and location data our average resting heart rate and body temperature new technologies of state and self surveillance promise to re enlighten the black boxes of our bodies and minds but sun ha hong suggests that the burden to know and to digest this information at alarming rates is stripping away the liberal subject that knows for themselves and risks undermining the pursuit of a rational public what we choose to track and what kind of data is extracted from us shapes a society in which my own experience and sensation is increasingly overruled by data driven systems from the rapidly growing quantified self community to large scale dragnet data collection in the name of counter terrorism and drone warfare hong argues that data s promise of objective truth results in new cultures of speculation in his analysis of the snowden affair hong demonstrates an entirely new way of thinking through what we could know and the political and philosophical stakes of the belief that data equates to knowledge when we simply cannot process all the data at our fingertips he argues we look past the inconvenient and the complicated to favor the comprehensible in the process racial stereotypes and other longstanding prejudices re enter our newest technologies by the back door hong reveals the moral and philosophical equations embedded into the algorithmic eye that now follows us all philosophy as a way of life this unique collection of essays on the late pierre hadot s revolutionary methodological approach to studying and practicing philosophy explores hadot s primary conviction that philosophy itself goes beyond solving puzzles and analyzing abstract arguments hadot believed that philosophy is a key part of humanity s search for happiness that it can transform our perception of the world and thus can alter our very mode of being his argument that the goal of philosophy is to shift our focus away from our habitual obsession with individuality and to embrace universality and objectivity has resonated with thinkers across the academy and outside it offering genuinely interdisciplinary analysis of hadot s work and philosophical practice this volume includes papers written from a gamut of philosophical historical and geographical perspectives articles address issues in the history of philosophy from pythagoras to descartes by way of islamic thought thus corresponding to hadot s view of the importance of philologically based analysis of ancient texts and historical contexts others study the presence of ideas related to or influenced by hadot in contemporary thought from wittgenstein to leonard nelson analytic philosophy and french postmodernism the result is a wide ranging publication pointing to an additional third way alongside the traditional approaches of continental and analytic philosophy one that expands our horizons with secular spiritual exercises designed to enable us to be in a fuller more authentic way
