winner of grawemeyer award in this remarkable and timely work in many ways the culmination of his systematic theology world renowned theologian jurgen moltmann stands christian eschatology on its head moltmann rejects the traditional approach which focuses on the end an apocalyptic finale as a kind of christian search for the final solution he centers instead on hope and god s promise of new creation for all things christian eschatology he says is the remembered hope of the raising of the crucified christ so it talks about beginning afresh in the deadly end yet moltmann s novel framework deeply informed by jewish and messianic thought also fosters rich and creative insights into the perennially nettling questions of eschatology are there eternal life and personal identity after death how is one to think of heaven hell and purgatory what are the historical and cosmological dimensions of christian hope what are its social and political implications in a heartbreakingly fragile and fragment world moltmann s comprehensive eschatology surveys the christian vista bravely envisioning our horizons of expectation for personal social even cosmic transformation in god the industrial revolutionthe industrial revolution which took place in great britain between the middle of the eighteenth century and the middle of the nineteenth transformed british industry and society and made great britain the most powerful nation in the world the industrial revolution didn t happen due to one single factor but rather to a number of separate yet related developments which interacted to change the world profoundly and completely improvements in the production of iron allowed the construction of efficient reliable steam engines these steam engines were then used in the production of iron to improve the quality and quantity of iron production even further manufacturing became concentrated in factories filled with automated machinery while canals and improved roads allowed raw materials to be brought to these factories and for finished products to be distributed inside you will read about transport and the rise of global trade the iron heart of the industrial revolution the power of steam the lives of workers during the industrial revolution the rise of labor movements and much more during the the industrial revolution people became used to the availability of cheap mass produced items transported to the point of sale from other parts of the country or even other parts of the world however people also became used to living in large cities and working in factories and mills often for meager wages and in dangerous and exhausting conditions progress made a small number of people very wealthy but it also condemned a large portion of the british population to living and working in danger and squalor opposition to the industrial revolution came from skilled workers who saw their jobs being replaced by machines and from influential poets who deplored the loss of what they regarded as an idyllic rural agrarian way of life this opposition was brutally repressed and even those who tried to champion the rights of workers sometimes found themselves under attack by the british army the industrial revolution changed almost everything about the british way of life and it spread from great britain to most of the developed countries of the world this is the story of a revolution which continues to affect all of us in the modern world this paper examines how the effects of fiscal policies are transmitted internationally the analysis emphasizes that fiscal shifts of recent years constitute major disturbances to saving and investment flows an increase in a country s fiscal deficit corresponds to a higher level of public sector dissaving for increased foreign saving to enter through the capital account the current account deficit must rise via an appreciating real exchange rate an autonomous rise in investment such as that induced by us tax measures passed in 1981 1982 produces qualitatively similar effects in the short run simulations suggest that a permanent fiscal deficit reduction of 1 percent of capacity output in any one of the three largest industrial countries produces a significant decline in real interest rates and a large initial depreciation in that country s currency us tax incentives for investment would induce higher interest rates and an appreciated dollar simulations of the combined effects of increased us investment and observed movements in inflation adjusted deficits in all three countries in 1981 1985 suggest that substantial fractions of these interest and exchange rate movements were related to shifts in fiscal policy
