new emphases and expanded attention to censorship and diversity a guide to help parents introduce books and reading to children at a very young age includes suggested reading for various ages of children can parents change or are they saddled with their present attitudes and habits does understanding of a child and his problems of growing up make any real difference in what parents actually do or in how the child matures many people today take a negative defeatist attitude toward those questions however there is a positive way of thinking about child growth and development we have sound psychological evidence that children learn under certain conditions when they feel a need for learning when the task is meaningful and appropriate to their ability when they can see results and when they experience satisfaction in the process and the product parents can consciously help to create these conditions this is especially true in helping the child learn to read parents not only can avoid creating situations in which the child becomes bored frustrated or resentful about reading they can also create situations in which the child can succeed with reasonable effort whatever his ability may be situations in which he can get some satisfaction from reading whether he reads a book of riddles an adventure story or fascinating facts about history or science in this book we have tried not to be prescriptive we do not want to sound like the voice of authority telling parents what to do about their child s reading our aim is to give parents a background of understanding that will help them to determine their own role in the reading development of their child many specific suggestions will be given as a reservoir of ideas from which parents may select any pattern or combination of patterns that seems appropriate to their child thus they will become more competent and confident in their rightful role as co workers with teachers in the formal aspects of their child s education this inspiring book shows how k 12 teachers literacy specialists and coaches and school and district level administrators can work together to make needed instructional improvements while fostering a lifelong love of reading and writing the book presents collaborative leadership strategies and research based best practices for creating joyful effective learning environments it includes ways to evaluate and recalibrate literacy programs for sustainable change provide students with a wide variety of engaging reading opportunities meet the needs of english learners and adolescent learners partner with families and enhance professional learning and development teacher friendly features include practical tips and stop think and take action sections in each chapter several Reading by Right

Charles van Doren has laid a feast before all of us that is irresistible. Mortimer J. Adler's engaging love letter to reading follows the great authors and classics that transformed the world from Aristotle and Herodotus in ancient Greece to Salinger and Heinlein in 20th-century America. Like a professor whose enthusiasm enraptures his students, van Doren explains what's wonderful in the books you've missed and awakens your desire to reopen the books you already know. Divided chronologically by the periods in which these classics were written, each book is put in its historical context and brought to life by van Doren's brilliant analysis. The joy of reading delves into a wide range of genres: fiction, poetry, drama, children's books, philosophy, history, and science. This is the one book that brings together everything you need to know about the classics you missed and ignites your passion to read and reread the greatest books the world has ever known. This book is the fruit of a lifelong love affair. Reading, I believe, is my favorite thing to do. Books and I have been inseparable almost as long as I can remember. To this day, I become distressed if I am anywhere without a book, a magazine, a newspaper, any scrap of paper to read. I like the smell of books, certainly the feel of them. Life without books would be for me a vacant horror. Charles van Doren nothing recommends the joy of reading better than the communication of it by a person who has spent a lifetime enriched by the delights of reading. Charles van Doren is that kind of reader. He has laid a feast before us that is irresistible. Mortimer J. Adler, author of How to Read a Book. Mr. van Doren is that rarity, a truly well-read man who reads not for professional purposes but for pleasure. His book spurs us on to explore more deeply and joyfully the infinitely varied terrain of good books. Clifton Fadiman, author of The New Lifetime Reading Plan: The Classical Guide to World Literature.
