on July 4, 1776, the United States declared itself a free and independent nation. Two weeks later, the Continental Congress began working on the Articles of Confederation to create a government for the new country. By 1787, that government was found to be ineffective, and a convention was called to amend the Articles. The delegates quickly realized that amendment wasn't enough; a new type of government had to be created. The result of their deliberations was the Constitution of the United States, ratified in 1789. The first Congress proposed ten amendments, known as the Bill of Rights. Over the next 210 years, there were seventeen more amendments. This book will help you to read, study, and understand the founding documents of our nation, as well as the rights and responsibilities of our government and citizens.
