administrations why do strong opposition party organizations emerge in some democratizing countries while those in others remain weak or quickly fragment on ethnic lines from protest to parties provides an explanation for differences in opposition party strength in democratizing regimes in africa that remain far from democratic the book argues that strong parties benefit from pre existing mobilizing structures that transcend ethnic and other cleavages these mobilizing structures are a legacy of authoritarian rule where authoritarian states relied on alliances with corporate actors notably organized labor they unintentionally armed their allies providing them with structures and resources that could later be used to effectively challenge the state secondly opposition parties are more likely to maintain their organizational cohesion and the commitment of activists when they use strategies and appeals that escalate conflict and reorient social boundaries around the lines of partisan affiliation polarization forges stronger parties but it also increases the likelihood of violence and authoritarian retrenchment from protest to parties draws upon an in depth analysis of three countries in anglophone africa zimbabwe zambia and kenya though these countries share similar institutional frameworks including electoral rules opposition party development takes a different route in each in addition to providing a unique window into the politics of mobilization and protest in closed political regimes the book sheds light on how the choices of political elites affect organizational development foreign direct investment in the natural resource industries is fostered through the signing of concession agreements between the host state and the investor however such concessions are susceptible to alteration by the host state meaning that many investors now require the insertion of stabilization clauses these are provisions that require the host state to agree that they will not take any administrative or legislative action that would adversely affect the rights of the investor arguing that it is necessary to have some form of flexibility in concession agreements while still offering protection of the legitimate expectations of the investor resource nationalism in international investment law proposes the insertion of renegotiation clauses in order to foster flexible relationships between the investor and the host state such clauses bind the parties to renegotiate the terms of the contract in good faith when prevailing circumstances change however these clauses can also prove problematic for both state and investor due to their rigidity using zambia as a case study it highlights the limitations of the efficient breach theory to emphasise the need for contractual flexibility this is a pioneering volume that emerges from the voices of women scholars who belong to the circle of concerned african women theologians in their response to the subjection of women and children in religion and public life the book uses the metaphor chikamoneka literally meaning it shall be seen to demonstrate resistance to all forms of oppression by empire to humanity especially those inflicted on women and children some of the themes that addressed in this book are drawn from women s lived experiences this demonstrates the power of narrative theory as a tool for academic discourse the book makes a vital contribution to academic religious and secular society in the field of gender religion development and sociology it is also the first publication by the zambian women of circle this volume examines critical issues that all developing countries must face subjects covered include an historical insight into and description of the legal system of a third world country considerations of intellectual property regimes and suggestions for developing countries insights into the patterns of investment on a continent the bulk of whose members are third world countries and suggestions for establishing and strengthening legal arrangements in order to attract beneficial investment a critical examination of proposals made during the most recent gatt multilateral trade negotiations and pointers to global trends in the provision of financial services these chapters range from the historical to the contemporary from the descriptive to the analytical and prescriptive and from the theoretical to the empirical in toto the volume seeks to challenge scholars bureaucrats and technocrats in developing countries to critically and candidly examine the causes conditions and magnitude of underdevelopment and to propose and thoroughly critique options available to them as such the volume will be invaluable to researchers and officials involved with international development issues and third world studies the study was in response to the pressing quest for educational qualitative improvement in zambia an alternative qualitative method to school improvement is suggested the study describes and examines the administrative and leadership characteristics and climates of five zambian secondary schools designated and nominated by the ministry of general education and culture as successful schools interviews and questionnaires administered to headteachers and teachers were used for data collection content and item analysis in the interviews and questionnaire responses were used the findings are not consistent in all the five schools investigated with the literature on effective schools no school covered was perceived favourably in all the five dimensions tested appropriate recommendations are made for policy makers practitioners and stake holders higher education has recently been recognized as a key driver for societal growth in the global south and capacity building of african universities is now widely included in donor policies the question is how do capacity building projects affect african universities researchers and students universities and their scientific knowledges are often seen to have universal qualities therefore capacity building may appear straight forward higher education and capacity building in africa contests such universalistic notions inspired by ideas about the geography of scientific knowledge it explores what role specific places and relationships have in knowledge production and analyses how cultural experiences are included and excluded in teaching and research thus the different chapters show how what constitutes legitimate scientific knowledge is negotiated and contested in doing so the chapters draw on discussions about the hegemony of western thought in education and knowledge production the authors own experiences with higher education capacity building and knowledge production are discussed and used to contribute to the reflexive turn and rise of auto ethnography this book is a valuable resource for researchers and postgraduate students in education development studies african studies and human geography as well as anthropology and history although now a growing and respectable research field crisis management as a formal area of study is relatively young having emerged since the 1980s following a succession of such calamities as the bhopal gas leak chernobyl nuclear accident space shuttle challenger loss and exxon valdez oil spill analysis of organizational failures that caused such events helped drive the emerging field of crisis management simultaneously the world has experienced a number of devastating natural disasters hurricane katrina the japanese earthquake and tsunami etc from such crises both human induced and natural we have learned our modern tightly interconnected and interdependent society is simply more vulnerable to disruption than in the past this interconnectedness is made possible in part by crisis management and increases our reliance upon it as such crisis management is as beneficial and crucial today as information technology has become over the last few decades crisis is varied and unavoidable while the examples highlighted above were extreme we see crisis every day within organizations governments businesses and the economy a true crisis differs from a routine emergency such as a water pipe bursting in the kitchen per one definition it is associated with urgent high stakes challenges in which the outcomes can vary widely and are very negative at one end of the spectrum and will depend on the actions taken by those involved successfully engaging dealing with and working through a crisis requires an understanding of options and tools for individual and joint decision making our encyclopedia of crisis management comprehensively overviews concepts and techniques for effectively assessing analyzing managing and resolving crises whether they be organizational business community or political from general theories and concepts exploring the meaning and causes of crisis to practical strategies and techniques relevant to crises of specific types crisis management is thoroughly explored features benefits a collection of 385 signed entries are organized in a to z fashion in 2 volumes available in both print and electronic formats entries conclude with cross references and further readings to guide students to in depth resources selected entries feature boxed case studies providing students with lessons learned in how various crises were successfully or unsuccessfully managed and why although organized a to z a thematic reader s guide in the front matter groups related entries by broad areas e g agencies organizations theories techniques economic crises etc also in the front matter a chronology provides students with historical perspective on the development of crisis management as a discrete field of study the work concludes with a comprehensive index which in the electronic version combines with the reader s guide and cross references to provide thorough search and browse capabilities a template for an all hazards preparedness plan is provided the backmatter the electronic version of this allows students to explore customized response plans for crises of various sorts appendices also include a resource guide to classic books journals and internet resources in the field a glossary and a vetted list of crisis management related degree programs crisis management conferences etc this is book is about managing a daughter with cerebral palsy it is for the persons with cerebral palsy and those who are helping in managing the condition this open access book offers unique in depth comprehensive and comparative analyses of the motivations context and outcomes of recent land reforms in africa whereas a considerable number of land reforms have been carried out by african governments since the 1990s no systematic analysis on their meaning has so far been conducted in the age of land reform africa has seen drastic rural changes analysing the relationship between those reforms and change the chapters in this book reveal not only their socio economic outcomes such as accelerated marketisation of land but also their political outcomes which have often been contrasting countries such as rwanda and mozambique have utilised land reform to strengthen state control over land but other countries such as ghana and zambia have seen the rise in power of traditional chiefs in managing the land the comparative perspective of this book clarifies new features of african social changes which are carefully investigated by area experts providing new perspectives on recent land reform this book will have a considerable impact on scholars as well as policymakers this book brings together articles and conference papers on the zambezi river and kariba dam written by dr tumbare between 1998 2010 part i discusses issues of river basin and integrated water resources management and part ii contains papers in infrastructure development in the water and energy sectors this comprehensive survey of the history and status of education in zambia contains a selection of readings from published material the readings and accompanying editorial notes highlight some key aspects of the background to education in zambia and major factors that have influenced education development in the country over the years the content include the meaning and scope of education education in the pre colonial era african indigenous education and education in the colonial era an account of the author s journey through africa recounts his experiences as an observer during a big game safari hunt with local villagers and in caves and overhangs where he examined ancient cave paintings travel people are generally aware that legislation is introduced through bills that are sent to the legislature usually by the executive and then passed into law few however are familiar with the processes that precede the submission of a bill to the legislature in fact what eventually comes to the legislature is the product of long often laborious processes which go on for weeks months and even years to ensure that the civil servants and others who may be involved in shaping proposals are able to candidly express their views on policies that are being developed and refined the deliberations on the executive side of government traditionally take place in secrecy mainly for that reason the processes are not well known to the general public and even to some activists who lobby for or against legislation this book written by a lawyer who has long experience participating in these processes gives rare insight into how legislative proposals are conceived developed and finally written into the law it also contains easy to understand technical information that explains the significance of certain features of statutes further it deals with other matters that follow after enactment including publication entry into force application and much more the first comprehensive study of iran s political and cultural interactions with africa during the cold war and decolonisation the study presents archival evidence to show how president kaunda raised political and economic exclusivity in zambia in the early years of zambia s independence and how this retarded capital investment despite formal reforms and a new government this institutional mechanism still dominates and constrains zambia s political economy today
