this volume contains the detailed text of the major lectures and the abstracts of the lectures delivered during the seminar sessions the subject of our nato advanced study institute in 1981 was the application of modern dynamics to celestial mechanics and astrodynamics this preface will first explain the terminology then it will review shortly the content of the lectures and will outline how all this was made possible and finally it will disclose our future aspirations periodicity is an extremely important concept in our field therefore it should not be unexpected that our nato advanced study institute is enjoying a period of three years since 1972 we conducted four institutes with increasing interest and enthusiasm displayed by the participants lecturers and by this director celestial mechanics or dynamical astronomy is part of astronomy dealing mostly with the motion of natural celestial bodies astrodynamics or orbital mechanics is the application of dynamics to problems of space engineering and it treats mostly the dynamical behavior of artificial satellites and space probes the underlying mathematical and dynamical principles are of course the same for celestial mechanics and for astrodynamics this director of the institute and editor of the proceedings was extremely fortunate to have obtained the cooperation of outstanding lecturers who were clear thorough understandable patient to answer questions but above all had knowledge of the ix v szebehely ed applications of modern dynamics to celestial mechanics and astrodynamics ix x at the opening of the third meeting on celestial mechanics celmec iii strong sensations hit our minds the conference 18 22 june 2001 was being held in villa mondragone a beautiful complex of buildings and gardens located within the township of monte porzio catone on the hills surrounding rome a former papal residence the building has been recently restored by the university of rome tor vergata to host academic activities and events the conference room is called salone degli svizzeri here gregory xiii on february 24 1582 gave its sanction to the reform of the julian calendar and declared officially in use the calendar still adopted nowadays the magnificent high walls and tall ceiling strongly resounded giving to our voice a peculiar vatican sound which took us by surprise may be we thought a distant echo of the very words of gregory xiii proclaiming the modern calendar was still haunting the room around us in the audience many countries were represented thus indicating that the idea of putting together the three souls of modern celestial mechanics perturbation theories solar and stellar system studies spaceflight dynamic had been successful celmec iii is in fact the latest of a series of meetings the first two editions took place in 1993 and 1997 in l aquila italy whose aim is to establish a common ground among people working in celestial mechanics yet belonging to different institutions such as universities astronomical observatories research institutes space agencies and industries is the solar system ordered or is it simply the result of random and chaotic accidents this book takes the reader on a compelling and powerful journey of discovery revealing the celestial spheres in their astonishingly complex patterns movements of the planets are found to correspond accurately with simple geometric figures and musical intervals pointing to an exciting new perspective on the ancient idea of the harmony of the spheres hartmut warm s detailed presentation incorporates the distances velocities and periods of conjunction of the planets as well as the rotations of the sun moon and venus numerous graphics including color plates illustrate the extraordinary beauty of geometrical forms that result when the movements of several planets are viewed in relation to one another moreover the author describes and analyzes concepts of the music of the spheres with special emphasis on kepler s revolutionary ideas the book also discusses current scientific beliefs about the origin of the universe and the solar system enabling the reader to understand fully how this remarkable research supplements contemporary materialistic views of the cosmos the appendix includes his mathematical and astronomical methods of calculation as well as a detailed discussion of their accuracy and validity based on modern astronomical algorithms this volume presents recent work on babylonian celestial divination and on the greek inheritors of the babylonian tradition in the ancient world the collection and study of celestial phenomena and the interpretation of their prophetic significance especially as applied to kings and nations were closely related sciences carried out by the same scholars both ancient sources and modern research agree that astronomy and celestial divination arose in babylon only in the late nineteenth century however did scholars begin to identify and decipher the original babylonian sources and the process of understanding those sources has been long and difficult this volume presents recent work on babylonian celestial divination and on the greek inheritors of the babylonian tradition both philological and mathematical work are included the essays shed new light on all of the known textual sources including the omen series enuma anu enlil which contains omens from as far back as the early second or even third millennium and the earliest personal horoscopes from about 400 b c as well as the astronomical diaries ephemerides and other observational and mathematical texts one essay concerns astronomical papyri that confirm the extensive transmission of babylonian methods into greek a study of ptolemy s lunar theory suggests that ptolemy relied more on his own observations than previously thought and an analysis of theon s commentary on ptolemy s handy tables shows that theon explicated their meaning both conscientiously and competently contributors asger aaboe alan c bowen lis brack bernsen john p britton bernard r goldstein gerd graßhoff hermann hunger alexander jones erica reiner f rochberg n m swerdlow anne tihon c b f walker the foundations of celestial reckoning gives the reader direct access to the foundational documents of the tradition of calculation created by astronomers of the early chinese empire between the late second century bce and the third century ce the paradigm they established was to shape east asian thought and practice in the field of mathematical astronomy for centuries to come it was in many ways radically different from better known traditions of astronomy in other parts of the ancient world this book includes full english translations of the first three systems of mathematical astronomy adopted for use by imperial astronomical officials together with introductory material explaining the origin and nature of each system and a general introduction to the work as a whole the translations which are accompanied by the original chinese text give a consistent rendering of all technical terms and include detailed explanatory notes the text in which the second of the three systems is found also includes a unique collection of documents compiled around 178 ce by two experts in the field one of whom was the author of the third system translated in this book using material transcribed from government archives of the two preceding centuries these scholars carefully document and review controversies and large scale official debates on astronomical matters up to their own time nothing equivalent in detail and clarity has survived from any other ancient culture the availability of the totality of this material in english opens new perspectives to all historians of pre modern astronomy
