Designing with Color 2010-12-01

this textbook/workbook trains students' eyes to develop a visual understanding of color and the principles of design through guided observation and engaging activities. Lavishly illustrated with full color graphics and photos, the book demonstrates how color and other design elements are combined in nature and the visual arts. Part one presents color, the most immediately noticeable element of design; part two integrates color with the other design elements and shows how they interact according to the principles of design. Students can apply their learning by completing a series of activities and record their work with photos for future reference.

this book represents a case study based overview of many different aspects of drug development ranging from target identification and characterization to chemical optimization for efficacy and safety as well as bioproduction of natural products utilizing for example lichen in the last section special aspects of the formal drug development process are discussed since drug development is a highly complex multidisciplinary process case studies are an excellent tool to obtain insight in this field while each chapter gives specific insight and may be read as an independent source of information the whole book represents a unique collection of different facets giving insight in the complexity of drug development
