after the second world war progressives and traditionalists waged a quieter battle over schools in between education and catastrophe george buri connects the educational debates of the 1950s to the broader canadian postwar political conversation about the social welfare state and keynesian versus laissez faire models of liberalism working skilfully with primary sources contemporary publications and a rich array of secondary sources buri examines debates over curricula the purpose of high school teacher training rural schools and standardized testing in manitoba the progressives who advocated for a new liberalism characterized by government intervention and the social welfare state sought to create a system of public schooling that would both equip students to succeed and enlarge their political vision by encouraging compromise and democratic decision making they promoted more practical subjects child centred classrooms and the use of psychological expertise to promote life adjustment meanwhile self styled traditionalists such as hilda neatby thought progressive education undermined the individual competition and achievement at the root of a laissez faire economy calling for a return to the basics an elimination of frill subjects and a more academic focus for the public education system a frank consideration of conflict power and influence within school systems between education and catastrophe brings to light compelling social cultural and philosophical themes within the history of education in manitoba the field of oncology and is the most common form of liver cancer in some cases hcc can be treated through surgery and ablations but can be extended to a full transplant risk factors for hcc have been elucidated in previous years linking hepatitis viruses diabetes and alcohol dependent conditions to the pathogenesis of hcc given the prevalence of hcc in global populations currently 800 000 new cases per year and rising there is a requirement to identify molecular targets in hcc and develop new therapeutic strategies to manage and treat hccs new technologies and techniques including gene sequencing bioinformatics and liquid biopsy have helped identify molecular and genetic players involved in the development of hcc as such a comprehensive genetic immune signature of hcc would be invaluable in the development of new therapeutics and treatment strategies as well as early identification and management of hcc there are currently various trials that implement a combination of already approved drugs to better the prognosis of patients suffering from hcc there is however still room for improvement and as our understanding of the various factors involved in hcc improves so will the prognosis of patients suffering from hcc globally this research topic aims to highlight the molecular and genetic targets that lead to the progression of hepatocellular carcinoma we welcome original research reviews and other article types the purpose of this research was to obtain a historically rooted understanding of the development application and adaptation of the british coin approach one from which the us has borrowed heavily it focuses upon those factors which interfere with timely adaptive application of current coin doctrine as soon as the warning signs of insurgency present themselves the price of failing to do so in terms of blood and treasure has been widely proclaimed daily in the news media during the past decade of american and british involvement in iraq and afghanistan authors on both sides of the atlantic have already made much of the us army s failure to capture coin lessons from vietnam and its abandonment of coin education in its schools after the 1970s for this reason most american commanders went into iraq with no doctrinal guide for coin a deficiency corrected only after painful reflection on the characteristics of the environment and the inefficacy of the conventional methods they initially employed the british army on the other hand went into iraq with a coin doctrine revised five times since the completion of its successful operations in malaya 1948 1960 including a version published only two years prior to entry into iraq why did the british army struggle with identifying insurgency and application of its own corresponding doctrine
