migrants made up a growing class of workers in late sixteenth and seventeenth century england in fact by 1650 half of england's rural population consisted of homeless and itinerant laborers unsettled is an ambitious attempt to reconstruct the everyday lives of these dispossessed people patricia fumerton offers an expansive portrait of unsettledness in early modern england that includes the homeless and housed alike fumerton begins by building on recent studies of vagrancy poverty and servants placing all in the light of a new domestic economy of mobility she then looks at representations of the vagrant in a variety of pamphlets and literature of the period since seamen were a particularly large and prominent class of mobile wage laborers in the seventeenth century fumerton turns to seamen generally and to an individual poor seaman as a case study of the unsettled subject edward barlow b 1642 provides a rare opportunity to see how the laboring poor fashioned themselves for he authored a journal of over 225 000 words and 147 pages of drawings barlow's journal studied extensively here for the first time vividly charts what he himself termed his unsettled mind and the perpetual anxieties of england s working and wayfaring poor ultimately fumerton explores representations of seamen as unsettled in the broadside ballads of barlow s time
