2016-09-01 the american southwest is one of the most important archaeological regions in the world with many of the best studied examples of hunter gatherer and village based societies research has been carried out in the region for well over a century and during this time the southwest has repeatedly stood at the forefront of the development of new archaeological methods and theories moreover research in the southwest has long been a key site of collaboration between archaeologists ethnographers historians linguists biological anthropologists and indigenous intellectuals this volume marks the most ambitious effort to take stock of the empirical evidence theoretical orientations and historical reconstructions of the american southwest over seventy top scholars have joined forces to produce an unparalleled survey of state of archaeological knowledge in the region themed chapters on particular methods and theories are accompanied by comprehensive overviews of the culture histories of particular archaeological sequences from the initial paleoindian occupation to the rise of a major ritual center in chaco canyon to the onset of the spanish and american imperial projects the result is an essential volume for any researcher working in the region as well as any archaeologist looking to take the pulse of contemporary trends in this key research tradition

The Oxford companion to archaeology. 1. Ache-Hoho 2024 this handbook provides a transnational reference point for critical engagements with the legacies of and futures for global archaeological collections it challenges the common misconception that museum archaeology is simply a set of procedures for managing and exhibiting assemblages instead this volume advances museum archaeology as an area of reflexive research and practice addressing the critical issues of what gets prioritized by and researched in museums by whom how and why through twenty eight chapters authors problematize and suggest new ways of thinking about historic contemporary and future relationships between archaeological fieldwork and museums as well as the array of institutional and cultural paradigms through which archaeological enquiries are mediated case studies embrace not just archaeological finds but also archival field notes photographic media archaeological samples and replicas throughout museum activities are put into dialogue with other aspects of archaeological practice with the aim of situating museum work within a more holistic archaeology that does not privilege excavation or field survey above other aspects of disciplinary engagement these concerns will be grounded in the realities of museums internationally including latin america africa asia oceania north america and europe in so doing the common heritage sector refrain best practice is not assumed to solely emanate from developed countries or european philosophies but instead is considered as emerging from and accommodated within local concerns and diverse museum cultures
