The House on the Moor (Vol. 1-3) 2022-05-17 mushrooms on the moor is a collection of essays from a baptist preacher on the joys of everyday things like books clothes or even mushrooms boreham challenges himself to open up the moments of his life into a laughing precious sweetness accessible to readers from all walks of life excerpt i have allowed the mushrooms on the moor to throw the glamour of their name over the entire volume because in some respects they are the most typical and representative things in it they express so little but suggest so much what fun we had in the days of auld lang syne when we scoured the dewy fields in search of them

Ashes on the Moor 2019 selected by choice magazine as an outstanding academic title speak of me as i am othello the moor of venice bids in the play that bears his name yet many have found it impossible to speak of his ethnicity with any certainty what did it mean to be a moor in the early modern period in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries when england was expanding its reach across the globe the moor became a central character on the english stage in the battle of alcazar titus andronicus lust s dominion and othello the figure of the moor took definition from multiple geographies histories religions and skin colors rather than casting these variables as obstacles to our and england s understanding of the moor s racial and cultural identity emily c bartels argues that they are what make the moor so interesting and important in the face of growing globalization both in the early modern period and in our own in speaking of the moor bartels sets the early modern moor plays beside contemporaneous texts that embed moorish figures within england s historical record richard hakluyt s principal navigations queen elizabeth s letters proposing the deportation of england s blackamoors and john pory s translation of the history and description of africa her book uncovers the surprising complexity of england s negotiation and accommodation of difference at the end of the elizabethan era

The House on the Moor Vol.I-III 2018 in a gloomy room looking out through one narrow window upon a moor two young people together and yet alone consumed the dreary hours of a february afternoon the scene within doors exhibited scarcely less monotony and dreariness than did the moor without which stretched black and heavy to the hills under a leaden sky the room was well sized and lighted only by that one window which was deeply sunk in the deep wall and hung with terrible curtains of red moreen enough to kill what little amount of light there was a large dining table of cold well polished mahogany occupied the centre of the apartment an old fashioned sideboard and mysterious bureau of the same character stood out darkly from the walls and hard angular chairs furnished forth the dining room as it was called but which was indeed drawing room study boudoir everything to the brother and sister who held occupation of it now and here were none of those traces of feminine presence which one reads of in books no pretty things no flowers no embroideries nothing to cast a grace upon the dulness perhaps that might be partly susan s fault but when one lives all one s life on the borders of lanwoth moor ten miles off from the humblest attempt at a town without any money and seeing nobody to stir one s ambition even a girl of seventeen may be pardoned if she can make little brightness except that of her presence in her shady place to tell the truth nobody made much account of susan she was not expected to exert much influence on the changeless atmosphere of marchmain no one supposed her to be the flower of that solitude any little embellishments which she tried were put down ruthlessly and the little girl had long ago learned as the first duties of womankind to do as she was bid and hold her peace she was seated now before the fire making a little centre with her work upon the cold glimmer of the uncovered table she was very fair in her complexion with hair almost flaxen white teeth blue eyes and a pretty colour she did not look intellectual nor interesting nor melancholy but sat leaning very closely over her work because there was not much light and horace stood full between her and what little there was she had a pair of scissors a reel of cotton and a paper of buttons on the table before her and on the back of her chair hang a huge bag made of printed cotton which it was safe to believe was her work bag there she sat with a little firelight playing vainly upon her dark woollen dress a domestic creature not very happy but very contented dully occupied in the silence and the gray afternoon living a life against which her youth protested but somehow managing to get on with tolerable comfort as women unawakened and undisturbed do
